

FACES DEATH IN ELECTRIC CHAIR

Jury Is Secured for Trial This Morning.

WHITMAN MAKES HIS ADDRESS TO THE JURY

Plans of Prosecution's Case Set Forth.

District Attorney Places Entire Blame for Rosenthal Murder Upon Lieutenant's Shoulders—Will Show Becker Was in Communication With Rose and Webber Immediately After Crime.

New York, Oct. 10.—Death in the electric chair for Lieutenant Becker was the demand made today in the opening address of District Attorney Whitman in the trial of the police official accused of the murder of Herman Rosenthal. After outlining his case the district attorney said:

"I know that we can show that a powerful motive for the murder existed in the heart of the prisoner at the bar, such a motive as no one else living could have had.

"We are going to claim that, in spite of the fact that Becker may not have used the fatal weapons, notwithstanding the fact that he may not have been present at the scene of the crime, conceding of course that others are guilty of the awful crime of feloniously taking human life: that the real murderer, the most desperate criminal of them all, was the cool, calculating, scheming, grafting police officer, who used the very office with which the people had entrusted him, the very power which was his for the enforcement of law and order, to tempt and force others into the commission of crime, to extort graft and blackmail from law-breakers and finally, for the protection of his infamous traffic in the purchase and sale of law enforcement, wantonly to sacrifice human life for the protection of which he held the very office which he held was created.

Sends for Rose.

"Becker sent for Jack Rose and told him that Rosenthal was becoming dangerous and his exposures must be stopped and that his voice must be silenced forever. He said: 'Now you have just done a favor for Zelig—Big Jack Zelig, the gang leader, who was shot to death last Saturday night—I want you to go to him and tell him he must do a favor for me. I want him to have his gang croak Rosenthal.'"

Mr. Whitman then went along with charges that Becker was in constant communication with Rose, urging him to hasten the death of Rosenthal. Becker became angry at the delay which Whitman charged, and finally a meeting was arranged between Becker and Lewis Webber, the gambling house proprietor, who has become a witness against Becker.

"There," said Whitman, "Becker put the proposition squarely up to Webber to the effect that Rosenthal must be put out of the way; that Rosenthal's exposures would ruin the whole graft institution."

Getting down to the morning of the murder, Whitman disclosed a line of evidence hitherto kept secret. He said:

"We shall show you how insistent Becker was that Rosenthal should be killed before Tuesday morning, the sixteenth of July, and how Rose and Webber secured the presence of the gun men at Webber's place."

Becker on Hand.

"We shall show you Becker's presence nearby and his communication with Webber's place after 1 o'clock on the morning of the shooting. Rosenthal was killed at 1:05 p. m.

"The men were taken to the station of the murder under Jack Becker's direction. Rosenthal having been located by Webber, who returned back to the murderers.

"We shall show you how Rosenthal was killed and how, after the escape of the murderers, Rose noticed Becker at his home. To use his own expression, 'the job had been done and that he—Rose—was very worried,' or words to that effect."

"We will show that Becker recognized that everything would be all right; not to worry. Becker went to the station house where the body of Rosenthal was lying, although not officially, and later he went to Perry-Second street, where the Webber and Rose, both on the verge of collapse from fright, and fear of discovery.

"We shall show you whereby Becker made arrangements for Rose and Webber to pay the gun men $1,000 the next day 'to get out of town for a little while.'"

"This was the first time that it became known that Becker was in communication with the gun men."

NYE IMPLICATES MEN HIGHER UP

Alleges Corruption of Solons by Big Business.

GIVES NAMES OF THE GUILTY ONES

Revelations To Be Repeated to Grand Jury.

Dr. George B. Nye Pleads Guilty. Admits Soliciting Bribe of $1,000. May Never Be Punished If He Tells What He Knows to Jury—Names of Those Who Keep Diegel's Family Exposed.

Columbus, O., Oct. 10.—Dr. George B. Nye, representative from Pike county, appeared before Judge Kinkead unexpectedly and pleaded guilty to an indictment accusing him of having solicited a bribe in connection with the Kimble bill.

The indictment specifies that Dr. Nye, on April 18, 1911, solicited from B. F. Kimble, author of the law to redistrict the Pike and Adams county judicial district, the sum of $1,000.

Before appearing in court, Dr. Nye had been in secret conference with Attorney General Hogan and Prosecuting Attorney Turner of this city. It is stated authoritatively he made a full confession regarding corruption in the general assembly, giving the names of the interests and lobbyists who have been tampering with the legislators for years. Here is a summary of the revelations Nye made:

Lobbyists and interests who for years have been corrupting legislators named. These include men well known in business and politics.

One lobbyist, who had a specific following of both senators and representatives, with Dr. Nye at their head, given.

Dr. Nye's own income from graft in the legislature totaled $10,000 a year. Statements of Burns detectives fully corroborated.

Names of persons who raised big defense fund for indicted solons told; also those maintaining Diegel family while senate sergeant-at-arms is in prison.

Before Grand Jury.

A grand jury investigation is to be made forthwith. The expose of 1911, it is said, will be no more sensational than that expected now from the grand jury.

Dr. Nye may never be punished if he repeats his confession to the grand jury and appears as witness against those whom he implicated in the confession. Five other indictments against him will be laid away until he has fully complied with his promises in this respect. If he should go back on his confession he may be sent to the penitentiary for five years on his plea of guilty.

The Pike county solon is said to have admitted that his revenue from graft while a member of the legislature amounted to as high as $10,000 a year. He gave the names of those who contributed to these bribes. He corroborated in toto the evidence of graft given by Smiley, Bailey and Barry, Burns detectives, who worked up the first graft exposure in the spring of 1911 and which resulted in the indictment of Dr. Nye and others.

The confession exposes the persons who are keeping Rodney J. Diegel's family while he is serving a three-year term in the penitentiary, and also names those who, Dr. Nye says, put up the big defense fund for indicted solons. This bit of information is said to be welcome to the prosecution.

SAYS DEFENSE WASTES TIME

Judge Becomes Exasperated in Dynamite Case.

IS TIRED OF HEARING PREFATORY EVIDENCE

Telegraph Company Officials on Witness Stand.

Government Says P. A. Clancy Deserts Fishing Party at Boston When He Sees Account of Times Explosion in Papers—Incriminating Evidence Alleged To Be Contained in Messages.

Indianapolis, Oct. 10.—Judge Anderson sat down on the defense in the dynamite conspiracy case in federal court Thursday morning because he believed Senator Kern was wasting the time of the court.

The defense cross-examined at length witnesses introduced to show that certain telegrams could not be produced in court because they have been destroyed. Judge Anderson asked the defense to waive this protracted examination because it simply was preliminary evidence to form the basis of direct evidence. This the defense refused to do. Senator Kern continued to make lengthy cross-examination.

Judge Anderson repeatedly interrupted Senator Kern and urged him to be brief. Finally in exasperation the court said:

"This is preliminary evidence that could just as well be dispensed with, and I am not going to have much more time wasted on it."

Fail To Produce Telegram.
Telegraph company officials were on the witness stand to produce a telegram from P. A. Clancy, at Boston, to Thomas Cahill, San Francisco, the day after the Times explosion, saying "clean house." They could not produce the telegram.

This telegram is the one said to have been sent by the defendant, Clancy, when, the government says, Clancy became afraid something would be found in his office, connecting him with the dynamiting.

Clancy is said to have deserted a fishing party at Boston upon seeing an account of the Times explosion in the morning papers. He is alleged to have rushed that telegram out at once and to have followed it from Boston to the coast at once.

Judge Anderson instructed the jury that it was not to infer that the alleged telegrams asked about ever were in existence. The court explained that the evidence of the telegraph officials simply is to surmount a technical point of law.

Identifies Message.
P. L. Mounce, manager of the Western Union office in Indianapolis, was called and questioned concerning telegrams transmitted by his company for and to the defendants between 1905 and 1911. He identified a telegram from McManigal to his wife in Chicago, telling her when he would be home on a certain night, July 15, 1910.

In addition to being, according to the government, incriminating evidence against the defendants in the messages they contain, the telegrams now being identified by telegraph company employees are expected to help the government prove that certain defendants were at certain places at certain times.

Freedom Is Short.
Mrs. Wilbut was arrested as she stepped from the doors of the Ohio penitentiary where she had completed a ten-months' sentence for stealing from a Cleveland store. She was brought here on a fugitive warrant and will be tried on a charge of robbing a State street department store.

"They say the 'wages of sin is death,'" she said today, "but I have found that the wages of sin is hell. As a girl I had every thing I wanted. I wanted to marry a young man whom I met on a train coming home for Christmas one year and did so against the wishes of my parents. Within a short time I was cast adrift and forced to earn my own living."

Forced To Steal.
"I got work in a department store and discovered that either I had to steal to get presentable clothes or accept the proffered friendship inside and outside the store."

"The wages I was able to earn amounted to a grim joke. As against the men, I chose to become a thief and, while I am down and out' as they say on the street, I prefer jail to some other things. I believe still that I have a chance for better things when prison days are over.

"I have spirit and some honor, the best kind left. No prison can take those from me. Of course the criminal life doesn't pay, and I think I have learned a lesson. With the valuable lessons of life learned in the last two years I am planning to start anew when I have served what ever sentence is imposed on me here."

Banner Does Damage.
Lima, O., Oct. 10.—A Bull Moose banner flaunting across Main street and held aloft by ropes drawn around two chimneys fluttered today and pulled the chimneys to the street, injuring three persons and frightening a score or more of pedestrians. The chimneys fell sixty feet, dropping a shower of bricks into the street.

WILL DEMAND DIRECT REPLY

Servia Prepares an Ultimatum for the Turk.

ACTION TAKEN IN FACE OF EUROPEAN PROTEST

Possibility of War by Sunday Seems Certain.

Resentment Felt in Belgrade Because Austria Refuses To Allow Servians To Cross Hungarian Border—King of Montenegro Leads Army Against City of Scutari—Berani Is Reported Captured.

Belgrade, Servia, Oct. 10.—An ultimatum was prepared by the Servian government today for presentation to Turkey tomorrow, giving the Ottoman government twenty-four hours to guarantee reforms that will pacify the Balkan states. If the reply is unsatisfactory, or if no reply is made at all, war will probably be declared Sunday, and hostilities will begin at once.

General Putnik, who was today appointed chief of staff of the Servian army, will immediately begin an advance upon Turkish territory with an army of about 200,000.

Premier Pashich, of Servia, declares that an army of 400,000 has been mobilized, part of which will be used to defend the southeastern and southwestern frontiers.

Action Is Protested.
In preparing an ultimatum, which will probably mean war, Servia acted in the face of renewed protests from the European powers. The French minister here, M. Coullard-Descosma, has handed the Servian cabinet a memorandum, declaring that Austria-Hungary, France and Russia would regard it as an unwise and unwarranted act for Servia to go to war without waiting for Europe to bring further pressure upon Turkey to compel that nation to live up to the Berlin convention governing Balkan conditions.

Deep resentment is felt here against Austria for refusing to allow nearly 2,000 Servians to cross the Hungarian border to join the Servian army.

Advance Upon Scutari.
Berlin, Oct. 10.—With King Nicholas leading the main wing of the army, the Montenegrin advance upon Scutari, the principal city of Albania, began today, according to a telegram from Cetinje.

Attempts were made by the foreign office to get confirmation of the report, but up to early afternoon it had not been officially affirmed. However, as the Montenegrin base of operations is at Podgoritz, only thirty-five miles north of Scutari, it was regarded in official circles as highly probable that the Montenegrins would make their first strong assault upon the Turkish stronghold in Scutari.

Reported Capture.
Berani, another important Turkish city in the extreme eastern Turkish territory in the Balkans, is reported to have been captured by a Montenegrin force which began advancing from the Montenegrin frontier immediately upon the declaration of war by Montenegro against Turkey.

Mallssori tribesmen are extending their hostilities throughout Albania against the Turks. Inhabitants of all Turkish villages that are unprotected are flocking to the nearest garrison towns.

Scutari, which will likely be the scene of the bloodiest fighting in the western Balkans, lies at the southern foot of Scutari lake, and has a population estimated at from 20,000 to 30,000.

The town is protected by a high citadel, which commands the surrounding country. It has a number of large manufacturing plants and is an important trading center.

Powers Send Note.
Constantinople, Oct. 10.—The note of the powers, containing proposals for dealing with the Balkan crisis, was handed to the Turkish government today.

It is reported that the powers have pledged themselves to subdue the war frenzy of the Balkan league and Greece, if Turkey will pledge herself to carry out the promised reforms in Macedonia and Albania.

Turks Invade Bulgaria.
Constantinople, Oct. 10.—Turkish troops have invaded Bulgaria on the western frontier, and several skirmishes have taken place there.

According to dispatches received here, Turkish troops marched upon the Bulgarian town of Kilsura, forty miles west of Sofia, but their advance was halted there. Another fight took place at Terush, on the frontier.

THE FAKE POOLROOM STALL IS EMPLOYED

Affable Strangers Fleece Victim Out of $4,900 Roll.

Charles Leheriter Falls for the Proposition of Getting Rich Quick by Placing "Sure Thing" Bets—He Puts His Coin on "Double Cross" and Is Wished a Very Pleasant Good-Night by His Friends.

New York, Oct. 10.—How two affable strangers met a Brooklyn man and separated him from $4,900 of hard-earned cash by means of the fake poolroom game, was told to the police today by Charles Leheriter.

Leheriter lives at No. 270 Strand avenue, Brooklyn. He says that about eight months ago he saw an advertisement in a morning paper which stated that there was a mighty good business proposition afoot that would interest the right party, and by which the profits might turn out so great that a man could get rich enough to retire—or words and phrases to that general effect. Through the advertisement, Leheriter says, he made the acquaintance of a man named Franklin, who was stopping at the Astor house.

Mr. Franklin was very pleasant, and took him to a second man, whose name the police say they believe to be Fred Roosen. His new friends took him to an alleged poolroom in the neighborhood of Forty-Second street and Fifth avenue.

There they explained that by advance information, which they were able to obtain, it was possible to place a bet on an absolutely sure thing in the racing way. Oddly enough, races were about to be run at that very moment, and Mr. Leheriter was provided with the name of a guaranteed, first-class sure thing; and, being so provided, he placed a bet.

It was a good bet—a very good bet; for another agreeable gentleman at a telephone announced that Mr. Leheriter's horse had won, and Mr. Leheriter found $60 clear profit in his hands. But why prolong a familiar story?

Mr. Leheriter's new friends picked a horse called Double Cross and when they got through playing Double Cross they had exactly $4,900 of the Leheriter funds and wished the former owner a pleasant good-night.

FILES PETITION TO RESTRAIN RACING.
Governor Marshall Wages War on Indiana Turf Men.

Valparaiso, Ind., Oct. 10.—Governor Thomas R. Marshall, through Attorney General Hogan, has filed a petition in the circuit court here to prevent any planned race meetings at Porter, Indiana.

A petition was also filed, asking for a temporary restraining order to prevent the meet which is scheduled to begin Saturday.

The defendant in the suits is the Foundation company, which has spent $300,000 in building and equipping the new track. Arguments on the petition are to be heard Friday, before Judge McMahon, at Crown Point, Indiana.

Secures Evidence Against Her Father's Murderers.
Four Are Arrested and Nine Indicted.

Conspirator Makes Confession While Intoxicated.

Mrs. Clifton Gross Works All Summer and Succeeds in Finding Parties Responsible for Death of Her Father, Sheriff Edward Callahan, of Jackson, Kentucky—There Is a Lack of Evidence Before Jury.

Jackson, Ky., Oct. 10.—Four alleged participants in the assassination of former Sheriff Edward Callahan are in jail here. They are D. A. Deaton, Govan Smith, Will Deaton and Jim Deaton, all residents of Jackson. The indictments, which were returned by the grand jury today, charges nine other men with participation in this crime.

Among them are Elisha Smith and John Clair. None of the nine have yet been arrested.

Ed. Callahan was shot from ambush when standing near his store, May 4. At the grand jury investigation there was not sufficient evidence to make an indictment. Callahan's daughter, Mrs. Clifton Gross, has worked all summer hunting up evidence, and just before the beginning of the present term of this court she rode horseback for six successive nights through the wilds of the Middle Fork country seeking, finding and securing affidavits of unwilling witnesses to the conspiracy resulting in her father's death.

The first witness to break the bonds which bound the alleged conspirators to silence was Ashbury McIntosh, who, while intoxicated, confessed, it is said, to have agreed with the others that he would induce Callahan to come out in front of his store, under the pretense of wanting to buy some fencing wire. For this McIntosh says he was to have $100, but he says that he has only been paid $10.

Another witness, a Miss Stidham, testified to having heard the plot to kill Callahan when living at the home of D. F. Deaton. Wilson Callahan, the son of Ed. Callahan, left for Mexico as soon as the indictment was obtained, claiming that he was afraid to remain here.

THE WAGES OF SIN IS HELL!
Cries Woman Accused of Many Robberies.

FACES TRIAL IN THE CITY OF CHICAGO

Arrested Upon Leaving Ohio Penitentiary.

Mrs. Maud Wilbut Tells Her Experience in Life—Says Pay of Shop-girl Is Grim Joke—It Is a Case of Having To Steal or Accept Proffered Attention in Order To Get Decent Clothes.

Chicago, Oct. 10.—Mrs. Maud Wilbut, of Syracuse, New York, brought here from Columbus, Ohio, by state's attorney detectives told today of robbing some of the biggest stores in New York, Philadelphia, Pittsburgh, Cleveland, Detroit and Chicago, according to State's Attorney Wayman.

Although only twenty-one years old, the woman is said to have compressed into two years more daring exploits than occur to the average woman criminal in a lifetime.

She said she is a graduate of a Syracuse high school and that she had received further educational training in an Ottawa, Ontario, convent.

Freedom Is Short.

ROOSEVELT IN HIS OWN CLUB

Placed There by Witnesses Before Senate Committee.

HARRIMAN DOES PHONE TO MORGAN

Makes Request from White House for More Money.

Judson C. Welliver, a writer for the Munsey Publications, and Charles E. Russell, the Socialist Candidate for Governor of New York, relate story told by Wayne MacVeagh to the witnesses.

Washington, Oct. 7.—Judson C. Welliver, a newspaper reporter, now connected with the Munsey publications, swore before the senate committee investigating campaign funds today that Wayne MacVeagh told him that J. P. Morgan, following a request made by the "Man in the White House" through E. H. Harriman, contributed $50,000 to the Roosevelt campaign fund in 1904.

According to Welliver's story, MacVeagh was in Morgan's office when a telephone call for the financier was received. Morgan's secretary told him that it was Harriman on the wire. When he came back, Morgan told MacVeagh, the witness said, that Harriman had gone to Washington to dine with the president.

"What do you suppose that man in the White House wants," Morgan remarked to MacVeagh, according to the witness. Morgan then volunteered the information that Roosevelt wanted $50,000, and wrote a check for that amount.

Russell relates story. Charles Edward Russell, Socialist candidate for governor of New York, who was an earlier witness, repeated his version of the affair. According to his testimony, $100,000 was the amount demanded by Roosevelt. He named Welliver as his informant and the newspaper man's testimony was called for.

"I enjoyed this conversation with Mr. MacVeagh over two years ago," said Welliver. "And therefore I do not recollect the exact words of the story as told to me by Mr. MacVeagh."

"But in the main it was as follows: Mr. MacVeagh said he was in the office of J. P. Morgan in October, 1904, when Morgan's secretary entered the room and asked Mr. Morgan to step to the telephone. As I remember the conversation with Mr. MacVeagh, he said Mr. Morgan was disposed to demur. At any rate, the secretary explained it was a call from Harriman, who was anxious to talk with Mr. Morgan."

Morgan Goes to Phone. "Mr. Morgan went to the telephone and, after a few moments, returned apparently displeased with the result of the conversation. Mr. MacVeagh said Morgan was more or less displeased, and said:

"What do you suppose that man in the White House wants? It seems that Harriman has gone off to Washington at the president's invitation to dine with him, and now the president wants more money."

"Fifty thousand dollars was the amount that Harriman had asked for, according to Morgan. MacVeagh facetiously observed that the $50,000 would not be a heavy drain on the Morgan finances. Morgan replied that he thought he could stand the strain and as I recollect MacVeagh's conversation, Morgan then wrote a check for $50,000 and sent it to Mr. Harriman."

Senator Clapp asked: "Are you certain that MacVeagh used Harriman's name in the conversation?"

"Very certain."

"$50,000 is the sum."

"And that $50,000, not $100,000, was the sum?"

"Yes."

"I understand that Mr. Harriman said that President Roosevelt had asked him to ask Morgan to raise more money," said Senator Pomeroy.

"Yes."

"What do you wish to say regarding this incident?"

"I said that in 1904, Wayne MacVeagh was in Morgan's office and a telephone call came which Morgan answered. The call was from Washington. After Morgan had answered it he told MacVeagh that the 'G'—d—man in the White House' wanted him to give $100,000 more to his campaign. MacVeagh asked him what he was going to do about it, and Morgan said he supposed it would have to be done."

"What do you know as to the basis of this statement?"

"In 1910 I was an associate editor of Hampton's magazine. In the August number we published an article entitled, 'Is Roosevelt Inevitable?' and after it was published Wayne MacVeagh sent for a representative of the magazine and gave out this story. We didn't publish the anecdote. Hampton's later was dispossessed and I used the story in my speech."

"The story was told to the Hampton's representative by MacVeagh, but we did not care to use it then and put it away for future use. The time for this use having come, in my opinion, I used it in my speech."

on September 1." Senator Clapp, after calling the attention of the witness to the consequences of keeping secret the name of the reporter, demanded that the committee know who he was.

"Judson C. Welliver was the man," replied Russell reluctantly. Welliver is now the leading political writer for the Munsey newspapers and is a strong Roosevelt supporter. He was in the room when Russell gave his testimony. He did not turn a hair, but kept on with his note writing and was called to the stand when Russell was excused.

OLIVER BAIRD SHOT AT THE FAIRGROUND

Bullet Enters Neck and Lodges in Left Shoulder.

THE WOUND IS NOT REGARDED SERIOUS.

"Flute" Holmes is Accused of Shooting Baird, but the Wounded Man Says Holmes is Not Guilty. Holmes is Arrested and Is Held at the City Prison for Hearing.

Louis Holmes, colored, better known as "Flute" Holmes, is confined in the city prison as a result of a shooting affair at the fairground, Sunday morning, while Oliver Baird, aged twenty-one, is suffering of a bullet wound in the left side of his neck. The shot is alleged to have been fired by Holmes.

About 10 o'clock, the police received a call to the fairground on the report that Baird had been shot. Chief McDonough and Officers Thompson and Powell made a hurried trip to the scene in an automobile. The shooting occurred in the north end of the fairground, and as near as could be learned by the officers was the outcome of a quarrel over a nickel in a game of craps. From those on the scene when the officers arrived, little could be learned.

Baird was attended by Dr. S. W. Mattox, who took him in his automobile to the home of Baird's estranged wife on north Greenwood street, but his mother-in-law refused him admittance to the house. He was then taken to the Marion City hospital. On examination it was found that the bullet took a downward course and probably lodged in the left shoulder. Dr. Mattox stated that the wound was not of a serious nature, and it was not thought best to make an effort to remove the bullet.

After the officers reached the fairground, they secured a description of the gun user which answered that of Holmes. Some fellows asserted that Holmes did the shooting. Holmes was caught about forty minutes after the trouble in a field just north of the fairground. He was walking through the field when the officers called to him and he returned to meet them. When arrested Holmes did not have a revolver.

JOHN KELLEHER, JR., DIES SUNDAY EVENING

Announcement of Death Is Shock to Marion Friends.

John Kelleher, Jr., aged forty-eight years, eight months and four days, a native of Marion, died at a hospital in South Milwaukee, Sunday evening at 7 o'clock, death being due to a complication resulting from an injury sustained while at work in the shops about six weeks ago. The news of the death of Mr. Kelleher came as a shock to his relatives and many friends in Marion. But few of the particulars were made known in the telegram.

The deceased was very well known by the older residents of Marion. He left this city nineteen years ago, going to South Milwaukee, where he has since been employed in the shops as a blacksmith. During his residence in South Milwaukee, he made friends with all he met. He was one of the most popular and best known men in that city. He visited Marion but a few times after leaving here, his last visit being to attend the funeral of his brother, about six months ago.

The deceased is survived by his father, John Kelleher, of No. 342 Silver street; Mrs. James M. Cahill, of Palmy street; William Kelleher, of Massillon; Helen and James Kelleher, who reside at home. The remains were shipped to this city for burial and arrived here Tuesday night.

MOTIONS ARE FILED IN FEDERAL COURT

Henry B. Hane Wants Allegations Made More Definite.

Saturday, in the federal court at Cincinnati, Henry B. Hane, of sale city, filed motions to make certain allegations more definite and certain in the suits of A. E. McBee, New York broker, John Rauschenberger, of New Albany, and the Louisville Trust company, as assignee, against Mr. Hane, Newton J. Catrow, of Miamisburg, and James S. Webb, of Springfield. The plaintiffs seek to recover on bonds from the defendants named as directors of the Marion & Suburban Railway company.

In the suit instituted by McBee for an accounting of the funds derived from the issue and sale of the bonds, Mr. Hane asks that the complainant definitely set out from whom he purchased the bonds; what, if any, money came into the hands of the defendant from the issue and sale; when, where and how Mr. Hane diverted funds from the treasury, as charged, and if it is claimed any funds or bonds came into the hands of the defendant, that the amounts be specified.

Much the same specifications are desired by the Marion defendant in his motions in the cases of Rauschenberger and the Louisville Trust company.

The motions were filed through Crissinger & Guthery.

HERBERT M. VESTAL COMMITS SUICIDE

Young Richwood Man Shoots Himself Through Heart.

HAS SOME TROUBLE WITH HIS SWEETHEART

Quarrel with Young Woman Believed To Be the Cause of the Rash Act—Mr. Vestal Is Quite Well Known in Marion—Is Employed in Local Shops at Times.

Richwood, O., Oct. 7.—[Special.]—Herbert M. Vestal, aged twenty-one years, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Vestal, committed suicide at the home of his parents on south Franklin street, Sunday morning at 11 o'clock. Young Vestal, who had had some trouble with his sweetheart, shot himself with a thirty-eight caliber revolver.

Mr. Vestal has at no time been despondent. He acted as a special policeman at the Richwood fair, last week, and seemed in good spirits and good health. Sunday morning he went up street, and after returning home went to his room about 10 o'clock. About 11 o'clock his father heard a shot, but thinking it came from the fairground, a short distance away, gave it no thought. Five minutes later his wife went up stair on an errand and received a terrible shock when she found her son lying dead on the bed. He had shot himself through the heart, the bullet passing through the body. It was later found in the bedding. He had died immediately.

The young man bore a good name and his habits were exemplary. A quarrel with the young woman with whom he kept company is assigned as the cause of his rash act.

The deceased leaves his parents and the following brothers and sisters: Mrs. P. R. Rausch, of Leontonia; Burl, Ralph, Hattie and Hazel Vestal, who reside at home.

Mr. Vestal was quite well known in Marion, having been employed in the shops in that city at different times.

The funeral will be held Tuesday afternoon at 1 o'clock, from the family residence, Rev. W. N. Warjorn, of the First Baptist church, officiating. Burial will be made in the Price cemetery.

THE REGISTRATIONS HEAVY THURSDAY

About 1,700 Voters Are Recorded for the First Day.

The total registration on the first general registration day this year eclipsed that of four years ago considerably. Thursday's registrations, according to Elmer J. Schoenlaub, clerk of the Marion county board of elections, totaled 1,700. The total number of registrations for the first general registration day four years ago was just 1,589. On the second general registration day four years ago 1,632 electors registered, 780 on the third day and 894 on the fourth day, making a total of 4,645.

These figures were given out by Martin J. Burke, member of the board of elections, who added that many others registered just before election.

It is believed that the total registration of electors in Marion this year will be between 7,000 and 8,000.

October 10, 18 and 19 are the remaining registration days.

CONSCIENCE MONEY PAID TO THE COUNTY

Union County Receives Sum of $200 by Letter.

DIRECTIONS AS TO PLACING OF MONEY

Author of Letter Says He Owes the County the Money and Wishes To Return It—Is Careful That There Shall Be No Litigation as to the Placing of Money.

Who is the conscience-stricken Marion citizen who anonymously donated $200 to the Union county treasury, Thursday afternoon?

That is the question being asked by County Treasurer Robert S. Dombaugh, today.

The money was received by County Treasurer Henry J. Brooks, of Marysville, in an envelope that bore the Marion postmark. It was in crisp new bills.

The letter's author said he owed Union county the amount of money enclosed and added:

"Enclosed $200 place and pay into the general fund and oblige, from now a citizen of Marion county."

The letter was poorly written, and Marion county officials believe that the money must have been donated by the same conscience-stricken one, who turned $500 in the county treasury here, January 20, 1910.

After the question as to which fund it should be credited had been determined by the supreme court, the money finally found its way into the pike fund.

"If this is the same person, whose conscience is now hurting him, I have an idea that he designated the fund in his letter to avoid court proceedings similar to the fight over our $500 conscience fund," said a county official Friday.

The letter will be forwarded to the state bureau of public accounting in Columbus, but the money will be placed to the credit of the general fund of Union county.

TO RESURFACE STRIP OF ROAD NEAR CITY

State Engineer Meets the County Commissioners.

Last Friday, D. W. Seitz, deputy chief engineer of the state highway department, and County Surveyor George E. Dwyer viewed the work being done on the Marion-Upper Sandusky pike, a strip of which is being built by the state. The work was found to be progressing satisfactorily.

Following the inspection, Mr. Seitz met with the county commissioners and figured out the cost of the construction of a strip of road on the Marion-Delaware pike that is to be resurfaced jointly by the state and county, the state to have supervision over the work. The resurfacing will begin at a point near the farm of John Mautz, six miles south of the city, and run north a little less than three miles to a point near the Byron Falk place.

The total cost of the improvement is estimated at $9,441.60. Of this amount Marion county will pay $5,099 and the state the balance. The improvement will be advertised at once, and the contract let at the end of thirty days by the state highway commissioner.

MOVEMENT TO JOIN TWO DENOMINATIONS

Presbyterian and Reformed People May Combine.

That the Presbyterian and Reformed churches will be consolidated before a great while is the conviction of many Presbyterians and members of the Reformed church.

Friday, Rev. George M. Rourke, pastor of the First Presbyterian church, said that action in regard to the consolidation of the two denominations would be taken at the spring meeting of the general assembly to be held in Atlanta, Georgia.

The question probably will be discussed at the Ohio synod to be held at Bellefontaine in the near future. Rev. Mr. Rourke said that the doctrines of the two denominations were practically the same and that was the reason for the movement to combine the two churches into one denomination.

AN OLD LANDMARK HAS BEEN REMOVED

Fine New Building Is To Be Erected at Once.

The old frame building next to the alley at the rear of the Cummin building, on south Main street, is now a thing of the past as the work of tearing down the structure was started Friday. The building was at one time situated on south Main street and was occupied by Coffey & Stone as a grocery store.

After being moved to its present location it has served as the shop of a number of persons in various lines of business, but for a number of years has been occupied by H. D. Keeler as a bicycle repair shop. More than a year ago, the structure was condemned and ordered torn down, but owing to the season of the year for building, an extension of one year was secured.

The building seemed to carry a charm against fire, and while it has been threatened a number of times, it was never damaged to any extent. While the exact age of the building is not known, it is said to be the oldest of frame structures in the city. It is to be replaced by a three-story brick structure with a fine basement, the new building to be built to the plans of H. D. Keeler, who will occupy the entire structure with one of the most up-to-date bicycle repair shops in the state.

STOCKMAN BARN IS DESTROYED BY FIRE

E. G. Stockman Suffers a Loss of About $1,000.

Prospect, O., October 4, 1912. [Special]—The barn at the home of E. G. Stockman, residing on the northeast edge of Prospect, was totally destroyed by fire about 7 o'clock Thursday evening, causing a loss estimated at $1,000. The fire started in the haymow, and was discovered by the members of the family when the flames burst through the roof on the east side. The origin of the fire is unknown.

As soon as the blaze was discovered, Mr. Stockman sounded the alarm and rushed to the barn in time to save the horses. It was with some difficulty that this was accomplished, as the barn was filled with smoke. Stockman, who conducts a nursery, lost a number of young fruit trees that were just outside the barn. The contents of the barn consisting of about $300 worth of stock food, fifty bushels of potatoes, farming implements, tools, harness hay and much produce which had been gathered at the various fairs went up in flames. The Prospect fire department worked diligently and kept the fire from spreading to surrounding buildings which were badly scorched.

SHOT FIRED THROUGH THE KITCHEN WINDOW

Bullet Barely Misses Mrs. Lester Postle, of Pearl Street.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. A. C. Mohr, of Pearl street, was the scene of what is believed to have been an accidental shooting shortly after noon, Thursday. Mrs. Mohr and her daughter, Mrs. Lester Postle, were in the kitchen when a shot from a twenty-two caliber weapon was fired through the rear kitchen window at close quarters.

The bullet entered the house with such velocity that a hole was drilled through the window pane, and the glass was scarcely cracked. The missile barely missed Mrs. Postle, and buried itself in the casement of a sitting-room door.

Investigation was made at once as to the source of the shot, but no

WANNAMAKER, THE ASPIRING.

Then there is Reuben Wannamaker. Reuben is a common place judge in Summit county and knows the pay promptly, although he doesn't work much at the job. But he is a Progressive, desiring as most of them do to progress from one job to another. He started out last spring as a La Follette booster and became the head of the La Follette organization in Ohio. Then he swung over to Teddy, swung back to Robert, then zigzagged back to Ted. He was as unsettled in his mind as Owen Wister's hen, Emily. He consulted his friends as to whether he should be the Republican candidate for governor, congressman or supreme judge. He finally picked the last named place as promising the longest term and almost equal salary with smaller necessary outlay. He went before the Republican convention, and presented his claims, which were rejected amid uproarious enthusiasm. Mad, but undaunted, he "bull-moosed" to Columbus later and got a place on that crazy-quilt ticket pieced together by that champion of the plain people, Walter Brown. That put him on the ballot, securely enough, but they were afraid the supreme court would knock out the non-partisan scheme and so he started petitioning for nomination as an independent candidate. Anybody will sign a petition, and people wrote their names on the petition to nominate him as readily as they would on one to hang him, or to send him to Arkansas. The court sustained the non-partisan proposition, but Wannamaker wants to show that his first name is misleading and that he should be called "Foxy" instead of Reub. He filed his petition with the secretary of state and now insists that his name shall go on the ticket twice. No designations are permitted on the ticket to show with what party the candidate affiliates, but Reuben nevertheless wants his name put on the two times because he was nominated twice—and neither time by the people. But he only wants his name once on the tally sheets and he wants all the votes on the ticket for both the Wannamakers to count on the ballots for the one Wannamaker. Wouldn't you like to rest your case in the hands of a judge, who would seek to work that sort of sharp practice at election? Neither would we.

MUCH GUSH ABOUT THE PRIMARY.

We are surprised that Governor Hadley still seems so much concerned over the question of enforced presidential preference primaries. We heartily agree with him that there should be a reformation in the manner of selecting delegations to the national convention in some of the states. This work should be done only by delegate conventions called by recognized party authority, after due and ample notice. We are opposed to delegations selected by handfuls of office-holders, as was done in some southern states, to those named by state patronage as was done in California or by those picked by hand as was done by Cecil Lyon in Texas.

But we are, by no means, convinced that a preferential primary is the best way to settle the question. We had a modified preferential presidential primary in many of the states this year. From evidence at hand, we find that more than a million dollars were expended by the backers of Roosevelt, Taft and La Follette. And so a poor man would not stand very much of a chance in a game of that sort. Lincoln could never have entered; Grant could not have won in such a primary without his own army back of him. Garfield would never have been president, for there can be no chance for deadlocks and the choice of a happy medium. There is much gush about this primary question which will not stand analysis. When the people are sufficiently interested they will name the man they want, whatever the method of nomination followed. And where they are indifferent, the primary is the most dangerous and unsatisfactory method known.

THE PASSING OF ANDERSON.

When the body of Carl Anderson was laid to rest among the scenes of his boyhood in Fremont, Friday, there closed a career such as is possible in no country but the United States. Here was a man whose completed years were only half those allotted by the Psalmist and yet he had triumphed over early poverty and climbed to the seats of the mighty. From bootblack to congressman in less than a quarter century. It may be said that Mr. Anderson was not a great man, but who can deny that he held the seeds of greatness. We know that his mind was alert, his intelligence acute. We know that he had "energy-plus" and that he learned each day many things and some things thoroughly. We know that he had sympathy, humanity and understanding, that he had a genius for friendship and that the friends he made so readily he held unalterably. With his inherent traits, with his indomitable ambition and tireless energy, with his gifts to win and hold popularity, with the development of his rapidly expanding powers, he would have gone very far, we believe, had life and health been spared him. And we are deeply grieved that it was not so to be.

The fellow who started the report that General R. B. Brown had said he was too old to make a campaign and was discouraged over the prospects, was either a most extravagant liar or he does not know the veteran. General Brown is sixty-eight years old, but, except in the matter of years, he is the youngest man in the race. He is healthy, vigorous, dearly loves a fight, if he can have a part in it, and he is having the time of his life. And he expects to be elected, and it will take the official canvass, if he is beaten, to convince him of that fact. But if he is beaten, he will stay in his party and fight its battles because he believes in its principles. And he hates a quitter or a Bull Moose calf.

To the Bull Moose has-beens and want-to-bees in New York state, as well as the country over, Job Hedges' declaration—that "a government is something to live under, not on"—will appear almost incendiary.

One of these days the gun men will get next to the fact that there is a whole lot of good, solid meat in the old proverb, "As you sow, you shall reap."

THE UNMASKING OF ROOSEVELT.

Probably no one is surprised by the proof adduced at Washington the past week in support of the statement long before made that the great 1904 and 1908. There was no law against such contributions at that time, and it was understood that the leading business men of the country believed that the prosperity of the country could best be assured by the election of the Republican ticket. Not only the trust magnates, but business men of all kinds, contributed according to their means or interest. Since the corporations contributed to the campaigns of law went into effect making it unlawful for corporations to contribute to political campaigns, the money has been contributed by officers of corporations, presumably being rendered able to do so by opportune and temporary increases of salary, etc. This was true in 1910 when business men attached to large corporations generously and even lavishly financed the gubernatorial campaigns of Judson Harmon and Governor Dix, of New York.

But the fact of the contributions was not in itself the sensational development of the week. It was the absolute unmasking of Theodore Roosevelt, who had positively denied that such contributions were made. His own letters were produced showing that he was on terms of the closest intimacy with Harriman and others of the court of money. The men who solicited, received and disbursed the vast sums were men, who were closest to him, who held their places by his favor and were subject to his wishes. It is not conceivable that they would withhold from him the financial details of his campaigns—he would not have permitted this. And so, the testimony shows, he set his name to a falsehood when he wrote Judge Parker that the latter lied when he charged that the great interests were financing his campaign. It also shows that he was guilty of the shorter and uglier offense, when he replied with the lie-direct to the assertion of Edward H. Harriman that he had raised money for the campaign at the direct request or suggestion of Mr. Roosevelt. This may open the eyes of some of those who have followed the Colonel blindly as he has run amuck, striking at those who have been in his confidence and yelling liar at former friends of his whose reputation for truth had before and have since been unimpeachable.

The blatant self-sufficiency of the Colonel upon the stand, Friday, should condemn him and will, except to those who follow him, not in ignorance of his character, but simply because he is the leader of the discontented, the champion of the discredited, the hope of the disappointed and the public avenger of the private wrongs of those too cowardly to fight their own battles.

In his defence, he produces letters written to men he had himself appointed directing that contributions be not received from the great corporations. These letters were written solely with a view to the use he is now making of them. Had it been otherwise, they would have been published when written. Roosevelt never overlooked a publicity-promotion scheme like that. They were written after such contributions had been received and disbursed. No money was rejected, none was returned.

The Colonel says that if money was taken no consideration was given and that he proceeded to give the Standard the "Spanish twist." But it is of record that the Standard, while it gave, did not give all that was asked and it is significant that the Standard was the only trust against which Mr. Roosevelt proceeded with determination and severity. The Standard and the railroads were the only great corporations to feel the Roosevelt displeasure. The Steel trust could and did eat out of his hand. The Sugar trust could sleep on nights with Theodore on guard; the Beef trust was given a certificate of character and a medal for beneficence by "Little Jimmy" Garfield. As for the other trusts, the Colonel was god-father to most of them and they were born and grew lusty and strong under his administration.

Mr. Roosevelt says that when he was president and there was any man from whom he could learn anything he sent for him. And he boasts that among those who obeyed his kingly command were John L. Sullivan and "Battling" Nelson. Well, we know what he learned from them. We know now where he acquired his manners and his vocabulary.

ANOTHER BULL MOOSE FAKE.

Ben Allen, of the Cleveland Leader, who has discovered more mare's-nests than any man alive, is responsible for the story that the Republican national committee has given up hope of Taft's election and is working solely in the hope of retaining control of the senate. This is as absurd as anything Ben has ever perpetrated in his long career as a journalistic faker, and that is saying much.

In the first place, the Republican national committee has not lost hope of Mr. Taft's reelection. His prospects have grown brighter daily, and his forces are being swelled every hour by the return of thousands misled into following the Mad Mullah, when he belted the corral.

In the second place, the Republicans have not had control of the senate, the "independents," or "insurgents" having voted with the Democratic minority in violation of party platform pledges for the past four years, giving the effect of a Democratic majority.

In the third place, the senate, under present conditions, would be valueless to the party without the presidency.

And in the fourth and last place, the Republican national committee is interested in and working for the election of every candidate on the national, state and county tickets from president to coroner, and is anxious to see every one of them elected. But Ben got over a column of the bile out of his system with the story.

Here a short time ago we had Rev. Herbert Bigelow and Ed. Doty and others urging the necessity for a constitutional amendment providing for "direct legislation," through the initiative and referendum. That point they won. Now we find these two worthies, and others of their class, organizing a "People's Power League," which is to decide what statutes the people may be permitted to enact through the "I. and R." It is going to be a mighty wise proposition to watch these patriots, Bigelow, Doty & Company, who have no visible means of support outside of legislation, to scan all measures they show an interest in and "in case of doubt, vote no." They are both single-tax advocates.

THE STEALING OF CALIFORNIA.

The absolute buncombe of Colonel Roosevelt's doctrine of the square deal was never better illustrated than out in California, the state of which his running-mate, H. Johnson, became governor through a fluke.

By the action of the Bull Moosers of that state, the Republicans of California are debarré from voting for their candidate for the presidency.

The California primaries were held subsequent to the organization of the self-styled Progressive party. Members of the new organization voted at the Republican primaries, never-the-less, and elected a majority of the delegates to the state convention. The convention, though Republican in name, was made up chiefly of Bull Moosers elected thereto by the fraud perpetrated at the primaries, as detailed. This convention selected electors favorable to Colonel Roosevelt, and appropriated the Republican emblem and column on the ballot. In a word, by the fraudulent manipulation of the primaries—in which they had no right to take part as their allegiance to the Bull Moose party barred them from the right to take part in Republican primaries—the Bull Moosers chose, as electors, men pledged to Roosevelt, and preempted emblem and position on the ballot alike.

Appeal was made by the Republicans of the state to the supreme court, but, although it denounced the law by which the steal was accomplished—the same primary law, which was designed for just such contingencies as arise with minority rule—it held that the electors chosen at the state convention were legally selected under the law.

Thus the loyal Republicans of the Golden Gate state must vote for Roosevelt, for Wilson, for one of the minor party candidates, or lose their vote on the head of the ticket.

And yet Theodore Roosevelt has the effrontery to go before the people of the land quoting "Thou shalt not steal."

The Cleveland Leader has switched Sunday magazines. Something the matter with the literary merit of the old one? No! The change Sunday was brought about by the fact that the people who printed for the Leader the magazine which it circulated the week before had sold a page ad. in it to the Taft literary bureau, and the ad. was a hummer, containing more real, unvarnished political facts than the Leader has printed during the entire campaign. No wonder the Leader wouldn't stand for it.

If these predictions of a long and severe winter continue to multiply at the present rate, it wouldn't be a half bad proposition to anticipate one of the short and open variety. The winter prophets have been playing in mighty tough luck for some years past.

It must fill the heart of the Hon. Bill Flinn with poignant regret that he never thought of explaining that he "donated" his $100,000 to the campaign for the "good of the country."

SWING OF THE POLITICAL TIDE.

[Cincinnati Times-Star.]

"The vitality of the Republican party," remarks the New York Times, "is reasserting itself in the return to the support of Mr. Taft of many old and young Republicans, who have for a time been victimized by the third-term imposture. They have been admirers of Mr. Roosevelt; for one reason or another they were dissatisfied with Mr. Taft. But the course of the Progressive campaign, the shiftiness, the violence, the extreme radicalism of Mr. Roosevelt, have opened their eyes. They see that the path they have taken in following him leads nowhere. They have examined with growing incredulity, and with a disfavor that has become indignation, his assertion that the Republican party is dead. They recognize their mistake, and all over the country they are hastening to recover their standing as Republicans."

The Times, referring to "the now general belief that Mr. Taft is growing in strength," sees the collapse of the Roosevelt movement. But being an ardent supporter of the Democratic ticket this year, it does not believe that the revival in Republican strength will come fast enough to beat Wilson.

We will know more about this latter proposition a little later on. The swing toward Taft has only just begun. Ten days have brought a very marked change in the political atmosphere. The business men of the country are coming over to the President almost in a body; the American workman who believes in orderly progress—and there are more of him on the day of a presidential election than on any other day in the four-year period—is beginning to think seriously on the situation. He knows that there has been real and steady progress in Washington under the Taft administration; he knows that the country is prosperous; and he has at least a strong suspicion that there will be a sudden break in this prosperity if either Wilson or Roosevelt is elected.

When a party possessing the traditions and the basic strength of the Republican party begins to make apparent and rapid gains at this stage in a presidential campaign, it is not exactly safe to make easy predictions as to its defeat in November.

TELEPHONE SECRECY.

[Youngstown Telegram.]

In Sandusky a grand jury has found it necessary to direct the attention of the managers of the two local telephone companies to the state law requiring secrecy for all messages passing over telephone lines. The managers are instructed to display this statute in large type in their exchange rooms for the benefit of operators.

The action of the Erie county grand jury was taken on the advice of the prosecuting attorney of the county whose attention was called, by an anonymous correspondent, to an infraction of this statute. Some will sympathize with the aggrieved complainant who protests against garbled operators. The Sandusky man is but one of many who have had chosen secrets revealed through the medium of the exchange.

On the whole, however, any condemnation of the telephone operator would be unjust. Her work disproves rather than proves the belief that woman can not keep a secret. The surprising number of persons, more particularly men, who confidently trust their affairs of business, state and even affairs of the heart to the telephone wire causes one to wonder not that so many but so few become public.

A LARGE COMPANY WITNESSES CEREMONY

Miss Dessie Gregory and Mr. W. H. Symes Wed.

REV. G. M. ROURKE PERFORMS RITES

Marriage Service at the Home of the Bride—Mr. and Mrs. Symes Leave for a Wedding Journey—Will Be at Home to Friends in Marion About November 1.

The Henry Gregory home on west Center street was filled with wedding guests, Wednesday, to witness the marriage of Miss Dessie Gregory, the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gregory. Miss Gregory was married to Mr. Wilbur Henry Symes, of Rye Gate, Vermont, at 9:30 o'clock in the presence of about sixty relatives and intimate lady and gentlemen friends.

The wedding was beautiful in its appointments, and the home was festooned throughout with autumn leaves, bitter sweet and baskets of dahlias and other fall bloom in a profusion of tints. Amid this bridal array the company assembled shortly before the bride and groom, attended only by two little ring bearers, Virginia Knapp, of Bucyrus, and Virginia Smith, carrying the ring on a yellow chrysanthemum, descended the stairway and took their places before a beautiful bank of ferns and palms in the living room. Here they were met by Rev. G. M. Rourke, of the First Presbyterian church, who performed the double ring ceremony. The bride was attired in a traveling suit of blue and carried a cluster of cream rosebuds.

The wedding breakfast was served at small tables presided over by six of the bride's girl friends, Miss Margaret Burgess, Miss Donna Crissinger, Miss Louise Burgess, Miss Hazel Harvey, Miss Roma Hofstetter and Miss Marguerite Krause. The bride's table in the dining-room was lavishly decorated with a basket of yellow chrysanthemums. The place cards were also in keeping with the color scheme of yellow.

Accompanied to the depot by their friends Mr. and Mrs. Symes left, amid a shower of rice and good wishes, at 12:30 on a wedding trip of a couple of weeks to be spent with the groom's parents in Vermont. On their return they will reside with the bride's parents, where they will be at home to their friends about November 1.

The out-of-town guests were Mrs. W. H. Armstrong and Miss Mary Miller, of Ravenna; Mr. and Mrs. George D. Knapp, of Bucyrus; Miss Elizabeth White, of Mt. Glead; Miss Mame Wright, of Dayton, and Mr. Nelson, of Hamilton.

Mrs. Symes is a social favorite in Marion and is a member of the Tattler and Bridge clubs. She is a graduate of the Marion High school of the class of 1901, and has been one of the most efficient teachers in the public schools of Marion for a number of years. Mr. Symes came to Marion about three years ago and is employed as a mechanical engineer in the draughting department of the Marion Steam Shovel shops. He is a member of the Tally Wag club and, like his bride, has many friends in Marion.

THEODORE M'ELHENY IS BADLY INJURED

Well-Known Farmer Falls from an Apple Tree.

La Rue, O., Oct. 9.—[Special.]—Theodore McElheny, a well known farmer residing on the Black and White pike just over the line in Hardin county, fell out of an apple tree near his home, Tuesday morning, and seriously injured his spine.

Mr. McElheny was found unconscious by his wife, who, after waiting an hour on him at dinner time, went to see why he did not come. Judging by the small number of apples he had gathered it is believed Mr. McElheny fell from the tree soon after going to the orchard. His condition is extremely critical.

AN ANNUAL MEETING OF STOCKHOLDERS

Brewing Company Has a Fine Year of Business.

The annual meeting of the stockholders of the Marion Brewing & Bottling company was held at the company's office, Tuesday afternoon. Nearly all of the stock was represented at the meeting. The reports of the secretary and treasurer showed that the past year had been successful, while the prospects for the coming year are very bright. Many improvements were made during the past year. To take care of the growing business, it was decided to enlarge the cellar at the plant, build an addition to the bottling room and make other improvements.

The directors elected at the meeting are F. H. Ritzhaupt, C. B. Seidfield, Samuel Kraner, Herman Feidner, H. B. Hane, James G. Fairbanks and D. H. Harvey. A meeting of the directors for organization was not called, but will probably be held early in November. After the meeting, a fine spread was enjoyed at the company's plant.

HEAVY INSURANCE OF LATE CONGRESSMAN

Anderson Carries Policies for About $50,000.

The late Congressman C. C. Anderson was one of the most heavily insured citizens of Fostoria. He seems to have always, since early manhood, been a believer in protection of this kind, says the Fostoria Times.

True, many times he took out a policy to favor an agent to whom he was personally friendly, but the whole it was his policy to provide against the contingency of death or permanent disability.

It is probable at this time that no one knows the exact amount of his insurance in force, both life and accident, but from inside information, The Times can state with a fair approximation, that his life and accident policies aggregate $50,000. He had $6,500 in the United Commercial Travelers. In addition to this amount his widow will draw a full year's salary of $7,500 from the house of representatives.

BALDINGER TEAM IS STRUCK BY A CAR

One Horse Injured Badly and Later Is Killed.

John Baldinger, a farmer residing east of the city, drove out of the alley passing the residence of Dr. R. C. M. Lewis on south M-in street, about 4 o'clock, Tuesday afternoon, and his team drawing a heavy farm wagon was struck by a street car traveling rapidly down the hill. One horse received the full force of the blow and was knocked down. The animal suffered a broken hind leg and was badly cut and bruised. After an examination of the horse's injuries it was found necessary to call a veterinarian, who by the use of cyanide of potassium quickly put the beast out of its suffering.

RADICAL MARRIAGE LAWS ARE FAVORED

Illinois Methodists Go on Record at Chicago Conference.

Chicago, Oct. 9.—The Rock River conference of the Methodist Episcopal church has placed itself on record as favoring radical reforms in marriage laws.

Federal control of the entire subject of marriage and divorce, insuring uniformity of laws is urged. Physical examination of the contracting parties, wide publicity of the intention of the parties to marry, a law compelling the filing of a certificate setting forth all places of previous residences, a statute providing that no divorce be granted except on scriptural grounds, a statute making wife abandonment a felony, and rigid laws prohibiting the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors, were some of the reforms urged by the conference.

IS FOUND GUILTY OF ATTEMPTED REGICIDE

Young Italian Anarchist Sentenced After a Brief Trial.

Rome, Oct. 9.—Antonio D'Alba, the young anarchist who attempted to kill King Victor Emmanuel, March 14, was today found guilty of attempted regicide and sentenced to thirty years solitary imprisonment. This is equivalent to a life sentence as no prisoner has ever been known to live thirty years in an Italian cell.

The jury returned its verdict of guilty after being out ten minutes. The trial was remarkable for its rapidity. D'Alba was placed on trial yesterday afternoon, all the evidence was in by night and the prosecutor required only ten minutes in his argument today. The presiding judge summed up in fifteen minutes.

"Out of Frying Pan," Etc.

To vote for Dr. Wilson to make sure the defeat of Colonel Roosevelt would be a serious blunder for two reasons. First, there is no danger of T. R.'s election, for the support he hoped from Democrats has not been secured. Second, Wilson and his party are pledged to free trade.

DR. E. T. SWIGGETT IS ELECTED MODERATOR

PRESENTATION OF HISTORICAL GAVEL

Historical Society of Philadelphia Will Place the Gavel on Exhibition—A Movement To Bring More Young Men Into the Presbyterian Ministry.

The Synod of Ohio of the Presbyterian church, which opened its thirty-sixth annual session in First Presbyterian church in Beaufontaine, Tuesday morning, elected Dr. E. T. Swiggett, of Cincinnati, who has been clerk of the Synod for twenty-five years, the new moderator at the session Tuesday evening. Dr. Swiggett will succeed H. S. Bartz, of Kenton. This motion is quite an honor to Swiggett as it fell on his silver jubilee anniversary as clerk of the Synod. In recognition of his services, which he has so faithfully performed, he was presented a historical gavel, which is composed of bits of wood from the different kinds of wood grown in Ohio and of wood imported from the Presbyterian foreign missions. The gavel will be presented to the Historical society of Philadelphia, where it will be exhibited. It will be used only at the annual meetings of the Synod.

The session, Wednesday, given to the reading of the reports of the various committees, and synodical communion was held.

At the opening session, Tuesday morning, plans were discussed whereby more young men could be brought into the ministry. The Scotch movement was commended a motion was made to reorganize a committee directing the young people's societies so as to give the members a definite aim.

The Synod adjourned, Thursday evening.

There are 674 churches in Ohio Synod with a total membership of 123,000. There are 612 pastors, but many more are needed. A question of the consolidation of Presbyterian and Reformed churches was discussed during the meeting. The doctrines of the two denominations are practically the same.

CONFLICTING VIEWS OF WOODROW WILSON

The Scholar and the Candidate
Do Not Agree at All.

RESEMBLES COLONEL AS A VIEW-SHIFTER

Democratic Nominee Runs Far Amuck of the Party Platform in His Ideas on Various Issues, as Expressed in His Writings While a Professor at Princeton.

(By James Boyle, Governor McKin-ley's Secretary.)

It is being remarked that Wilson,
the candidate, is having a hard time reconciling his views with those expressed when he was a university professor and a writer of books.

For instance, no man in America wrote and spoke in stronger denunciation of the initiative and referendum than did Professor Woodrow Wilson, he did not on an occasion merely incidental to general observations, which might be explained as being a careless mental slip, but he frequently and with emphasis declared his convictions against this phase of "direct democracy," as being fallacious and as destructive to our American system of constitutional representative government—and this up to within a very recent period.

But after he became a candidate for the presidential nomination he went West in search of delegates to the national convention. Although in many respects he is the mental antithesis of Colonel Roosevelt, yet in one respect he resembles him, namely in his ability to change his views according to time and place;
he has the same "fluidity" and instability of political convictions—the same capacity for being "all things to all men."

Converted in the West.

Out West there is a strong sentiment—at any rate, a strong, active minority sentiment, full of clamor and noise—in favor of the initiative and referendum and other so-called "progressive" ideas. One need not be a cynic to connect this situation with the fact that Woodrow Wilson
—like Colonel Roosevelt—returned from the West a declared convert, more or less, to the initiative and referendum.

So, also, the learned professor is being quoted against the Democratic candidate for president—Wilson against Wilson—on the subjects of organized labor, immigration, etc.
These days the distinguished gentleman has a great deal of explaining to do.

But so far he has not attempted to explain his opinion as a scholar as compared with his supposed attitude
as the Democratic candidate for president with regard to the constitution-ality of a protective tariff. He and the Democratic platform are one as to the trade—or tariff for revenue only—but there is a clear conflict between his deliberate, written views,
as a professor of constitutional law,
and the Democratic platform, on the alleged "fundamental principle" of that instrument.

Instead of attempting to reconcile these conflicting views, he dodges the issue, and thereby he justifies the pre-convention criticisms of the high-priest of the "star-eyed goddess of reform," Marse Henry Watterson. The first plank of the Democratic national platform reads:

What the Platform Says.

"We declare it to be a fundamental principle of the Democratic party that the federal government, under the constitution, has no right or power to impose or collect tariff duties, except for the purpose of revenue, and we demand that the collection of such taxes shall be limited to the necessities of government, honestly and economically administered."

In his book, "Division and Reunion," written in 1892, when he was a professor at Princeton, Woodrow Wilson discusses the claim of the southern leaders that the tariff of 1829 was unconstitutional, even "deliberately and palpably" unconstitutional. He proceeds to say, page 51, edition of 1894:

"The constitution of the United States explicitly bestows upon the federal congress both the power to levy taxes of all kinds and the power to regulate commerce with foreign nations. The only limitation imposed is that all taxation shall be uniform throughout the United States, and that its object shall be either to pay the debts or to provide for the common defense or general welfare of the country. Plainly, it would seem to be within the right of congress to regulate commerce by means of duties or imposts in any way that seemed to it calculated to promote the general welfare of the nation. At any rate, such an exercise of power on its part would certainly not be deemed within reason a deliberate and palpable violation of the constitution."

If the British custom of "heckling" revalued over here, Candidate Wilson would be called upon at his public meetings to explain this conflict between his views and the "fundamental principle" of the party whose candidate he is.

SIXTIETH WEDDING ANNIVERSARY SATURDAY

Mr. and Mrs. David D. Jones

Celebrated.

Mr. and Mrs. David D. Jones, who are quite well known in Marion, celebrated their sixtieth wedding anniversary in a very quiet way at their home near Fulton, Saturday.

Mr. Jones is an uncle of Mrs. E. J.
Knauss, of Charles street.
Mr. Jones was married to Miss Sarah Phillips, sixty years ago,
on the Welch Hills in Licking county. To this union were born four daughters, two of whom are married and reside near their parents. The other two reside at home.
They have ten grandchildren and eight great-grandchildren. The only death that has occurred in the immediate family since their marriage was that of a granddaughter who was buried on their fifty-third wedding anniversary.

Mr. Jones was born near Utica,
New York, eighty-one years ago and moved to Ohio when seven years of age. He came with his parents by canal. He has resided in Ohio ever since with the exception of a short time spent in Iowa, during his early married life. His oldest brother was T. D. Jones, the sculptor, who made the soldiers' memorial now in the rotunda of the capitol in Columbus.
His brother, Richard Jones, Mrs.
Knauss' father, was buried a year ago last Saturday.

Mrs. Jones is the great-granddaughter of the famous John Paul Jones, and is the last surviving member of her family.

Buys Watkins Farm.

Saturday afternoon, George Williams, of Mt. Vernon, formerly of Marion county, an auctioneer, purchased the T. P. Watkins farm along the Columbus, Delaware & Marion Railway company's line, in Pleasant

THE CELEBRATION OF A PRETTY WEDDING

Miss Bonnie Pinyerd and Mr.
Ernest Owen United.

SMALL COMPANY WITNESSES CEREMONY

Marriage Rites Are Performed by Rev. Theodore F. Lageman, Pastor of the German M. E. Circuit.
Young People Will Make Their Home in Anderson, Indiana.

A very pretty October wedding was celebrated at the M. H. Pinyerd home on south Prospect street, Sunday morning, when Miss Bonnie Marie Pinyerd was joined in marriage to Mr. Ernest LeRoy Owen, a young newspaper man, of Anderson, Indiana, and a former resident of Marion.

The home was beautifully decorated with matrimonial vine and bouquets of fall flowers. The young people mingled with the guests, the company including the immediate families of the bride and groom and a few of the bride's most intimate girl friends, until the appointed hour of 9.30, when they took their places before a bank of ferns in the front parlor. The impressive ring ceremony was performed by Rev.
Theodore F. Lageman, the pastor of the German M. E. circuit, and a neighbor of Mr. and Mrs. Pinyerd.
The bride was very pretty in a gown of white embroidery over white satin, and wore a corsage bouquet of bride roses.

The wedding breakfast was served at the W. G. Paddock home, next door. The bride's table, at which covers were laid for the bride and groom, their parents and Rev.
and Mrs. Lageman, was beautifully trimmed with white carnations and smilax, with sprigs of matrimonial vine. The following girl friends of the bride assisted in serving:

Mrs. Emerson Schoonlaub, Mrs.
Ernest Carl, Mrs. Walter Guthrie,
Miss Rosetta Knapp, Miss Ella Paddock, Miss Anna Blanch and Miss Hazel Lepper.

After breakfast the company returned to the Pinyerd home, where the time was spent pleasantly until train time. Mr. and Mrs. Owen left about 2 o'clock for Indianapolis, and after a trip to Chicago, will go to Anderson, Indiana, where a home already furnished awaits them.

Those at the wedding from a distance were Mr. and Mrs. W. E.
Puckett and Miss Georgia Waterman, of Ft. Wayne, Indiana; Mrs.
Walter Guthrie, of Bucyrus; Charles Owen, of Johnstown, Pennsylvania, and Elmer Owen, of the Ohio State university, of Columbus.

The bride is a favorite in the younger social circles and is a member of the Per Se club. She is a very charming young woman. The groom is a son of Mr. and Mrs. W.
T. Owen, of east of the city, and is associated with the Anderson Bulletin, of Anderson, Indiana. He formerly was employed as a reporter on the Mirror.

THE OFFICIAL FIGURES AS TO REGISTRATIONS

A Total of 1,516 Electors Are Recorded for First Day.

THE RESULTS GIVEN IN EACH CITY PRECINCT

Four Years Ago, the Registrations for the First Day Exceed Those of This Year Seventy-Three—The Election Officials Are Much Surprised by the Lack of Interest.

Instead of the first day's registration showing an increase over the first day four years ago, the official figures, as compiled by the election board, show that Thursday's registration is seventy-three lighter.

The first day's registration four years ago totaled 1,589 and the first day this year just 1,516 electors registered. In making Friday's statement, that approximately 1,700 electors
registered, Secretary Elmer J.
Schonelaub, of the board of elections,
based his estimate on the precinct
registrations as turned into him.
Following is the official first day's registration by wards:

First—A, 59; B, 78; C, 65; D, 66;
E, 90; total, 358.

Second—A, 85; B, 113; C, 88; D,
47; total, 333.

Third—A, 82; B, 93; C, 81; D,
94; E, 76; F, 67; G, 79; total, 572.

Fourth—A, 91; B, 89; C, 73;
total, 253.

Total registration of the four wards, 1,516.

The official precinct registration figures show that Second B had the heaviest registration, with 113, and Second D the lightest, with forty-seven.

MRS. C. A. THOMPSON IS SEEKING A DIVORCE

Claims Husband Curses and Abuses Her Repeatedly.

ASKS RESTORATION TO HER MAIDEN NAME

Parties to the Suit Are Married in This City January 12, 1911—Mother of Herman Flach Against the Village of Green Camp—Some Local Court Items.

Charging that her husband attempted to kill her, Ella Louise Thompson, through Attorney H. Edmund Hill, brought an action for a divorce from Charles A. Thompson, October 4. The Thompsons were married in this city, January 12, 1911. Ever since their marriage the plaintiff claims her husband has cursed her, calling her vile names and threatening to kill her repeatedly. She wants a decree of divorce and restoration to her maiden name of Doty.

In the suit of Herman Flach against the village of Green Camp, the defendant, through Mouser & Moloney, last Friday, filed a motion for a new trial for the following reasons:

Because the court erred in overruling the defendant's motion to exclude all evidence at the hearing and trial of the cause; because it erred in overruling the defendant's motion to exclude the evidence and enter a finding for the defendant at the close of the plaintiff's testimony; because of the court's error to do as directed by the defendant's motion; because of error in the exclusion of evidence offered by the defendant, because the finding and judgment are against the weight of all the evidence and because the finding and judgment, being contrary to law, can not be warranted by law.

In the divorce suit of Vesta Marie Smith against Luther W. Smith, the defendant, through Mouser & Moloney, Monday morning, filed an answer, setting up a general denial.

On the ground of three years' willful absence, gross neglect of duty and extreme cruelty, Lillian Hammond, through Attorney Louis Myers, brought an action for a divorce from Jeremiah Hammond last Monday. The Hammonds were married in this city, March 20, 1907. She asks for a divorce and restoration to her maiden name.

The trustees of the Trinity Baptist church, through Crissinger & Guthery, Monday made application in the court of common pleas for authority to transfer the old First Baptist church property on north State street to the First Universalist church, after the property is first formally transferred to the Trinity Baptist trustees by the trustees of the former First Baptist church. Some months ago the First and Free Baptist churches were consolidated under the name of the Trinity Baptist church.

Monday afternoon, Judge Daniel Babst examined and approved the report of Receiver H. B. Hane in the matter of the Marion National bank against the Implement Manufacturing company. The $1,500 bond of Receiver Hane was canceled and he was discharged as receiver.

Judge Babst also examined and approved the report of Receiver C. E. Sawyer, of the Ohio Sanatorium company, and released his $50,000 bond. Dr. Sawyer was discharged as receiver.

Judge Babst, Monday afternoon, in the suit of Ernest Roecker against the state, found error in Mayor John G. Selter refusing to hear certain evidence and sustaining objections to questions. Judgment of the court below was reversed accordingly, and the costs were adjudged against the state.

Roecker was fined $25 for alleged violation of the Sunday-closing law last December. Roecker testified that he went into his saloon on north Main street to light the fires and not to sell whisky, as charged.

Eymon & Thompson, Roecker's attorneys, prosecuted error to the court of common pleas.

In the suit of Mable K. Watkins against Eliza B. Watkins, Judge Scofield, Monday afternoon, sustained a motion to make the defendant's answer more definite and certain. Leave was given to file an amended answer by November 2.

Charging her husband with abandonment and immorality, Susan DeLorme, through Attorney Louis E. Myers, brought an action for a divorce from Frederick DeLorme, in the court of common pleas, Tuesday morning. She asks for a divorce and custody of their eleven-year-old child. The DeLormes were married in Hoboken, New Jersey, September 7, 1888.

In the suit of Christian Benzler against Sarah Benzler, a motion to quash service of summons on the defendant, who is now a resident of Delaware county, has been sustained by Judge Daniel Babst. The plaintiff in an action sought to secure the modification of an alimony decree, the defendant having been awarded alimony of $500 annually in 1907. The Delaware county sheriff wrote, in a copy of the summons, Delaware instead of Marion. Another summons has been issued, but the error will considerably delay the proceeding.

In the suit of Addis A. Welch and others against John C. Dalk and others, Judge Scofield, Tuesday morning found for the plaintiff and against the defendant in the sum of $174.45, the latter being in default. This was a suit for an accounting for certain lumber sold by the plaintiffs to the defendants.

Tuesday morning Judge William E. Scofield issued a peremptory writ of mandamus as prayed for in the matter of John J. Doyle and Minnie E. Doyle, as partners doing business under the firm name of J. and M. Doyle, against the City of Marion and Edward Brandt, as director of public service.

Server Brandt will now have to award the Church street resurfacing contract to J. & M. Doyle at their bid of $19,602.80, or appeal the case to the circuit court. Judge Scofield fixed Brandt's appeal bond at $500.

The court awarded the peremptory writ of mandamus after overruling City Solicitor Fred W. Warner's motion to strike from the files Brandt's answer for the reason that he was not a party as an individual, and that the firm of Crissinger & Guthery, Brandt's counsel, was not employed by the city to represent him as director of public service.

That afternoon, it was stated, that the Cleveland Trinidad Paving company, of Cleveland, to which Server Brandt awarded the contract at its bid of $22,631.81 after refusing to award it to J. & M. Doyle, the lowest bidder, will appeal to the circuit court.

Catherine Stoll, through Mouser & Moloney, has brought suit in the common pleas court for alimony from her husband, Harvey B. Stoll, a painter. The Stolls were married in this city, January 25, 1882. She says her husband is addicted to the use of liquor and is abusive, so abusive, in fact, she says, that she was compelled to leave him. She asks that he be restrained from selling or disposing of a property, valued at $2,800.

HEART OF RELIGION.

By William T. Ellis.

The International Sunday-School Lesson for October 13 is "Clean and Unclean," Mark 7: 1-23.

The dirtiest spot on earth known to me is the present town of Tiberias on the shore of the lake of Galilee. Its filth is memorable even after experience with hundreds of oriental communities. Two sets of ultra-orthodox Spanish Jews make Tiberias their headquarters, maintaining schools of the rabbis there. The curls hanging in front of the ears and the distinctive raiment of the tradition-observing Jews are more marked in Tiberias than anywhere else in the whole land. Here the zealous wait for the Messiah to rise from the waters of the lake, according to their tradition, and to choose his disciples from their midst, proceeding to Safed on yonder hill to set up his earthly kingdom. Now all this religious zeal and orthodoxy and solicitude for ceremonial has no relation whatever to real cleanliness. This divorce between traditional "holiness" and common decency seems to characterize many sacred places. Thus Benares, the holy city of the Hindus, is so sacred that even if an infidel dies on its soil he has hopes of paradise. Yet Benares, the city, is fairly nauseous. Mecca, toward which every Moslem turns when he prays, and whither 200,000 pilgrims go every year, is the greatest breeding place for cholera known to medical science.

There all represent, like the fastidiousness of the pharisees, the religion of ceremonialism. Rites and observances are exalted to first place. The old Jews of the time of Christ had overlaid the law of Moses with their traditions until religion had become a burden too heavy to be borne. The exaction of the rabbis ran down into every department of human interest and into every hour of the life of the faithful.

The Reformer Dissents.

Clearly and fearlessly Jesus took issue with all this. He knew that the tendency of all religion is to deteriorate into a set of formal observances. The heathen faiths that environed Israel, even as the heathen faith of today, prescribed practices and ritual instead of spiritual faith. So the brave Teacher from Nazareth did not hesitate to indict the experts in religious ceremonialism as blind guides. With high disdain he dismissed the pharisees and their claims as teachers. In this, as always, the principles he laid down hold for all time.

The platform of the Reformer upon which all the race will one day come to stand, is "God is a spirit, and they that would worship Him must worship Him in spirit and in truth." Lip religion is not life religion. Seemingly right is less important than being right. The fundamental consideration for every life is that the heart shall be right with God. This is not affected by religious demeanor and prescribed practices: on the contrary out of the heart flow the fruits of a true religion.

Clean Hands or Clean Lives.

The debate which is set forth in this present Sunday-school lesson arose from the fact that the disciples of Jesus did not observe all the strict pharisaical rituals. In truth, nowhere in the world do the busy, out-of-door folks, the plain people, follow all the minutiae of all the Frank Underwood, fifty-five years old, a former inmate of the state hospital for the insane in Columbus, died at his home, five miles south of Beach, Sunday afternoon at 3 o'clock. He became ill in the morning, and incessant vomiting is believed to have caused a rupture of a blood vessel in the brain. The immediate cause of death was due to cerebral hemorrhage.

About a year ago Mr. Underwood was converted at a religious revival meeting, and a short time afterward his mind became affected. He was in the state hospital about six months and came home but recently.

Mr. Underwood was well known, and was held in the highest esteem by his friends and acquaintances. He is survived by his widow, three daughters and two sons. His children are Mrs. Arthur Ault, Miss Maude Underwood, Miss Dale Underwood, Scott Wesley Underwood and Floyd DeWitte Underwood, all of whom reside in Morrow county. COMMITTEE FINDS CHARGES UNTRUE

Judge Daniel Babst Exonerated in Report.

The committee appointed by the bar associations of Crawford, Wyandot and Marion counties to investigate the charges direct and indirect made by Benjamin Meek against Judge Daniel Babst, reported this afternoon, at Bucyrus, exonerating Judge Babst in every particular.

The following is the official report: A committee appointed by the bar associations of Crawford, Wyandot and Marion counties to investigate certain charges made and published by Benjamin Meek, an attorney-at-law in Crawford county, Ohio, against Judge Daniel Babst, judge of the court of common pleas, in the second sub-division of the tenth common-pleas district, in certain circulars—one entitled "The People Ought to Know," and the other, "Grand Jury Packed"—after having received and heard all the evidence offered to sustain said charges including the sworn testimony of witnesses and the recorded and published evidence makes hereby its report, and finds said charges have not in any wise been sustained.

On the contrary the evidence shows that the said charges are in every respect without foundation and untrue.

We find that said charges are in every degree unwarranted, and your committee deems it its duty to exonerate Judge Daniel Babst of all said charges, whether direct or by inference.

The salary of Rev. D. N. Kelly, who was recently returned to the Wesley M. E. church for another year, was raised from $1,000 to $1,200 at the first meeting of the official board of that church, Monday evening.

When the business was closed up in September, before the meeting of the conference, the church was found to be entirely free of debt and the members of the board and congregation are greatly encouraged in beginning the new year under such favorable conditions.

In recognition of the untiring services of Rev. Mr. Kelly during his pastorate here last year, his salary was raised $200, he having previously received a unanimous call to return here for another year.

The board reorganized by electing George Spreng, treasurer and Harry Forsythe, secretary.

M'DOWELL SALOON IS SCENE OF TROUBLE

Harry Bird Is Charged with Cutting August Myers.

BIRD ENTERS PLEA OF NOT GUILTY TO CHARGE

Is Held in Prison in Default of Bond of $200—Louis Holmes, Who Is Accused of Shooting Oliver Baird, Is Released from Custody—Some Police Notes.

George W. McDowell, who runs a saloon and boarding-house in the old Bateman property on Kenton avenue, filed an affidavit in the mayor's court, Monday evening, charging Harry Bird, an Erie switchman, with making an assault with intent to kill August Myers at his place Monday morning.

The stories of the principals differ, but the trouble was the result of the ordering of a sandwich. According to the story of Bird he has several companions, and they took a hand in the fist encounter with Myers, the latter being helped out by a friend. In the fight Bird alleged to have used a knife on Myers. The latter has a cut just above the right hip which required eight stitches to close.

Bird was arrested Monday night by Officers Shrock and Chapman, being taken from his work in the Erie yards. When arranged before the mayor, Tuesday morning, he pleaded guilty and his hearing was set for Thursday morning at 10 o'clock. He was placed under a bond of $200 and committed to the prison in default of the bond.

Louis "Flute" Holmes, who was arrested, Sunday, on a charge of being implicated in the shooting of Oliver Baird, colored, was released from the city prison, Monday afternoon. Baird was able to go from the hospital to the home of Holmes Monday, and is now being cared there. When interviewed by Chief McDonough, Monday afternoon, Baird denied that Holmes shot him and said that the shooting was accidental. Holmes did not have a revolver when arrested.

POLICE COURT.

The store of D. B. Goodsell, of north Main street, was entered by burglars between 10:30 and 12 o'clock Wednesday night, but most of the merchandise stolen was recovered, that morning, being found in a telescope grip in some brush at the rear of the Bartram home on north Prospect street.

Entrance to the store was gained by shoving the bolt catch off the door. The large telescope grip, two hand satchels, several boxes of candy, eight or ten clothes brushes, fifty post cards, some jewelry, ties and two savings banks, one containing a small amount of money that belonged to one of the clerks, was among the property missing from the store, Thursday morning.

Officer Babcock tried the rear door of the store at 10:30 o'clock and found it securely locked. When he made a second test at 12 o'clock the door was found open. It is believed the police were close to the burglars when the second visit was made, and that the grip was thrown over a fence into the Bartram yard.

William Cloud was arrested, Wednesday afternoon, by Officer Thompson on a charge of taking the name of God in vain against and in the presence of Amy Adams, who filed the affidavit against Cloud, Monday. When arraigned before the mayor Cloud pleaded not guilty and his hearing was set for Saturday. He later changed his plea and was fined one dollar and costs.

MRS. W. C. BUTCHER IS ELECTED PRESIDENT

Mission Workers Are in Session at Bellefontaine.

ACTION TAKEN AS TO COMBINING CHURCHES

Dr. Edward T. Swiggert, the Newly-Elected Moderator, Will Retain His Position as Clerk of the Presbyterian Synod—Matter of Pensions for College Professors.

Mrs. W. C. Butcher, of this city, was re-elected president of the Woman's Foreign Missionary association of the Ohio Presbyterian Synod, at the sixteenth annual session of the association held in connection with the meeting of the Ohio Synod being held at Bellefontaine this week. The association held its meeting, Thursday in United Presbyterian church and considerable business was brought before the synodical. The other officers elected were Mrs. Albert Shute, of Wooster, vice president; Mrs. Mary Wortman, of Cadiz, secretary and treasurer.

At the session, that morning, of the Ohio Synod, Rev. J. A. Gordon, of Van Wert, was elected a delegate to the International Reformed association convention to be held in Seattle in 1913. John E. After the meetings of the General Synod of the Reformed church and the General Assembly of the Presbyterian church in 1911 it is thought the two denominations will be united. It was also recommended that the Ohio Synod be divided into three groups to be known as the Middle, Eastern and Western groups.

PROCEEDING BEGUN IN THE FEDERAL COURT

A Kentucky Bank Is Behind Suit on Note.

PLAINTIFF SEEKS TO RECOVER SUM OF $5,000

Directors of the Marion & Suburban Railway Company Are the Defendants—The Bank Claims the Bonds Given as Security for Debt Are Found Without Value.

Wednesday, in a suit filed in the Cincinnati federal court, charges are preferred by the Citizens' bank, of Nepton, Kentucky, against John G. Webb, former president of the Columbus, Delaware & Marion Railway company; his brother, James S. Webb, of Springfield; Henry B. Hane, of Marion; George H. Holzboog, of Jeffersonville, Indiana, and Newton J. Catrow, banker, of Miami, as directors of the Marion & Suburban Railway company. The suit was instituted against the directors to recover on a $5,000 note given to the Kentucky bank by Douglas Webb & Company for an alleged loan of that amount.

It is set up that Douglas Webb & Company gave fourteen $500 five-per cent. bonds of the Marion & Suburban Railway company as surety that were later found to be valueless. In the petition it is charged that the Marion & Suburban Railway company, October 1, 1906, authorized an issue of $250,000 worth of bonds to finance construction, and gave to the Cincinnati Trust company as trustee, a blanket mortgage covering all of the property of the Marion & Suburban Railway company, the Marion Railway, Light and Power company and the Columbus, Delaware & Marion Electric Railway company, which reeled, among other things, that the latter two companies guaranteed the bond issue of the former company.

It is said that the bonds were thereupon turned over to John G. Webb in consideration of his agreement to build and equip the proposed road. This transaction is declared to have been the result of a conspiracy on the part of the defendants to defraud purchasers of the bonds.

It is declared by the plaintiff in the petition that in an alleged contract, made when the Marion Railway, Light & Power company agreed to guarantee the bond issue of the Marion & Suburban Railway company, the guaranty was in fact a "fictitious guaranty" for the reason that the property of the former company had been sold to the Columbus, Delaware & Marion Electric railway company February 15, 1905, more than a year previous to the date of the alleged contract.

It is also declared that the alleged "guaranty" of the Columbus, Delaware & Marion railway company was of no value, for the reason that its property was bonded in the sum of $2,500,000, which amount is alleged to be in excess of its actual value.

It is also alleged in the petition that the defendants carelessly and negligently permitted all but $15,000 worth of the bonds to be used by one or more of the officials of the Suburban company for purposes other than that for which they were issued, and permitted the proceeds derived from the issue and sale of the bonds to be diverted from the treasury and control of the Suburban company.

CONSTERNATION REIGNS IN CITY OF COLUMBUS

Special Session of Grand Jury Will Be Called Next Week

TO HEAR CONFESSION OF REPRESENTATIVE NYE

Confessed Acceptor of Bribes Is Credited with Placing Information in Hands of State's Attorneys Which Puts Them in Position to Make Their Work Sure.

Columbus, Oct. 10.—Consternation reigned today in the ranks of the legislators and lobbyists under indictment in connection with the legislative bribery cases.

This came with the announcement by state's attorneys that a special session of the grand jury will be called next week to hear the confession of Dr. George B. Nye, Pike county representative, who has pleaded guilty to one of the six indictments charging him with soliciting bribes while a member of the legislature.

Nye, who has been promised immunity if he tells all he knows on the stand, is credited with having placed information in the hands of the state's attorneys putting them in a position to make sure work of the prosecution of many of the legislators, against whom charges are pending, and brings many more persons, both officials and others, into the legislative bribery dragnet, thrown out two years ago.

The new turn in the bribery probe is in the direction of men and big interests high up, who created the conditions in the legislature to which the members simply fell victims. It is said these men shall be hauled before the criminal courts, as well as the legislators whom they used as their tools.

There is to be a general airing of the methods of big business to secure and prevent legislation at pleasure.

A number of indictments are also being contemplated, charging perjury against a number of witnesses, who testified in the graft cases.

CITY IN BRIEF.

Agreement Reached—The litigation as to the contract for the resurfacing of Church street has been settled, and work will be resumed Monday. FARMING IN OHIO.

Ohio has been so busy the last twenty or thirty years developing her cities and villages that she has lost sight of rural sections, which have suffered by the constant shifting of their people, leaving the farms to go to town and enter the activities where demands and opportunities have been and are still large, or going into new country to take up with inducements offered.

Right here on Ohio soil may be grown variety of crops with as great profit as anywhere, and it is the soil that has produced as fine a people and advanced civilization as anywhere Ohio is a good state in which to live and get a living, and no man is so firmly convinced of that fact and so determined to proclaim it as the secretary of the state board of agriculture, whose voice is to be heard at every opportunity—Youngstown Vindicator.

Miss Bess E. Dundore and Mr. William Kette.

REV. J. P. CURRIN IS OFFICIATING MINISTER

A Small Company of Relatives and Friends Witnesses Ceremony. Mr. and Mrs. Kette Leave for a Wedding Trip—Will Make Their Future Home in This City.

Miss Bess Edith Dundore, the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Dundore, of west center street, was united in marriage to Mr. Albert William Kette at the home of her parents, Wednesday evening at 6:30 o'clock. The ring ceremony was performed by Rev. J. P. A pretty feature of the marriage was, just as the bridal couple took their places before the officiating minister, the girls of the Quid Munc club, of which the bride was a member, formed a circle about the bride.

A wedding dinner was served in the dining-room, hand-painted place cards marking the covers which were laid at the bride's table and at smaller tables about the home. The bride's table was decorated with smilax and pink carnations.

During the evening, Mr. and Mrs. Kette left for a wedding trip to Akron and Cleveland and upon their return will be at home to their friends at the home of the bride's parents, after November 1.

Mr. Pearl Dundore, of Mansfield, a brother of the bride, was the only out-of-town guest.

Mrs. Kette is a young woman of a pleasing personality and has many friends. She is a milliner and for the past couple of months has been employed at the Powers Millinery shop. Mr. Kette is employed at the H. E. Klinefelter grocery and came here about two years ago from Marietta.

DANIEL A. POLING IS VISITOR IN THE CITY

Prohibition Candidate for Governor Delivers Address.

SPEAKS OF ISSUES OF PRESENT CAMPAIGN

Finds That the Opposing Great Parties Adopt Principles of the Prohibition Party in the Past. Will Enforce the Laws of the State if He Is Elected.

Mr. Daniel A. Poling, of Columbus, Prohibition candidate for governor of Ohio, delivered an excellent address to a fair-sized audience from the courthouse, Tuesday evening. The speaker arrived in the city by automobile at 7:30 o'clock, the time he was scheduled to speak here. He was introduced by Raymond J. Smith, of Columbus, state chairman of the party.

Owing to having made six addresses during the day, and on account of the damp and chilly atmosphere, Mr. Poling spoke briefly on various issues of the platform of the Prohibition party. He stated that the party would be dominant, and that many of its principles were being adopted by the opposing parties today. "The initiative and referendum and the woman's suffrage issues are not new, but were advocated by the Prohibition party over a quarter of a century ago," said the speaker.

Mr. Poling did not dwell long on the issues of the platform, but relative to the Prohibition clause, he said, "If two-thirds of the people who are convinced that the saloon is a bad thing will vote for me, I will be elected." He touched briefly on the rights of equal suffrage, and relative to the right of women to vote stated that this was the policy of those who met in one of the conventions in Chicago, referring to the Bull Moose party. He also spoke against the liquor traffic in the hope of a great reform for the good of the young man of Ohio, and asked that these men assist in his election for the good of the cause. He explained that one of his greatest aims, if elected governor of Ohio, would be to enforce the laws and compel the officials of cities and municipalities to see that the laws are obeyed.

Following the address of Mr. Poling, State Chairman Raymond J. Smith went over a few points which the speaker left untouched and also backed up some of the statements made by him. A cornetist, who was a member of the party, rendered several selections during the evening. The party left Wednesday for Green Camp where Mr.

FILES CHARGES OF CORRUPTION

Ogden Mills Appears Before Senatorial Inquisition.

ACCUSES SOME OF THE ROOSEVELT WORKERS

Primary Irregularities Said To Have Been Discovered.

Treasurer of the Republican County Committee of New York County Says Votes Are Cast in Alphabetical Order and Many of Names Belong to Dead Men—Witness May Be Called for Further Testimony.

Washington, Oct. 8.—Specific charges of corruption in the Sixth assembly district of New York county in the primaries were laid at the door of Roosevelt managers by Ogden Mills, treasurer of the Republican county committee of New York county. The charges have been laid before District Attorney Whitman, the witness said. Documentary evidence tending to prove the frauds were introduced in evidence by Mr. Mills.

The disclosures, made before the senate committee investigating campaign contributions, opened a new line of inquiry, and it is likely that witnesses will be called from New York to testify in regard to the allegations.

The poll book of the Fourth election district in the Eighth assembly district was put in evidence by Mr. Mills. It disclosed that the alleged voters, all of whom were recorded for Roosevelt, had cast their votes in alphabetical order, which, Mr. Mills suggested, raised a strong presumption that the names had been copied from the published list in the city record, and an equal number of Roosevelt votes put into the ballot box. More than a sixth of the men alleged to have voted in alphabetical order of their names for Roosevelt had moved out of that district or had died before the election, witness said.

A straight issue of veracity was raised regarding the story that J. Pierpont Morgan was asked for money by President Roosevelt in 1904 and called Roosevelt some uncomplimentary name.

The whole affair was "put up to Wayne MacVeagh," who has previously denied he was the source of the tale. Morgan said it "was made out of whole cloth."

Charles Edward Russell, Socialist candidate for governor of New York, told the committee that he was told the story by Judson C. Welliver, a reporter for Hampton's Magazine and the Munsey publications.

Welliver, who was at the press table reporting the hearing, immediately demanded to be sworn. He insisted that the tale was substantially correct and that he got it all from MacVeagh. Senator Clapp said MacVeagh would be summoned immediately.

The exploding of a boiler on the locomotive while the train was going at the rate of a mile a minute is believed to have been the cause.

BULL MOOSERS TURNED DOWN

Appeal to Ohio Supreme Court Is Fruitless.

RULING IS HANDED DOWN THIS MORNING

Progressives Must Perish in Many Counties.

The Court Rules That It Can Not Review the Action of Secretary of State Graves, Who Rules That Candidates' Names Can Not Appear on the Ballots of Two Parties in the State of Ohio.

Columbus, Oct. 8.—The supreme court today handed down a ruling that it had no power to review the action of Secretary of State Graves, who recently ruled that candidates' names could not appear on the ballots of two parties.

This action finally bars the Progressive party from placing the names of Republican and Democratic candidates upon their ticket.

In most of the counties of the state the Bull Moose ticket will practically be wiped off the boards as a result of the ruling.

The charge of a possible partisan feeling on the part of the members of the court can not hold under any circumstances, as all the justices sitting in the matter voted as one. Judge Spear, owing to the fact that he is a candidate on the judicial ticket for reelection to the supreme bench, did not sit in the case.

Thus the ruling must be taken as the unanimous decision of the highest tribunal in the state.

SAYS HOME RULE IS SURE TO PASS

Sir Rufus Isaacs.

The government opinion of the Unionist anti-home rule demonstration in Ulster was expressed by Sir Rufus Isaacs in these words: "I speak for the government when I say that these incidents in Ulster will not turn us one hair's breadth. We are undismayed; we are undaunted by all these performances. We shall carry the home rule bill through the house of commons. I venture to predict that before the end of the year the bill will emerge from the house of commons after its third reading."

MONARCHS OF BULGARIA AND SERBIA PLACE ISSUE OF PEACE OR WAR IN THE HANDS OF THE LEGISLATORS

In answer to the mustering of the troops of the Balkan States against the Turkish border, the Turks, boldly declaring for war, are advancing toward the frontier. Bulgaria, Greece, Serbia and Montenegro, as well as Turkey, are all anxious to begin hostilities, and a formal declaration of war is expected very soon.

The Bulgarian and Serbian Parliaments are now convoked in extraordinary session to consider the crisis, and the monarchs of these countries have left it to the legislators to decide on peace or war.

WIFE MAY TELL LIES TO HUSBY

Wise Wisconsin Judge Gives a Decision Today.

PREVARICATION IS QUITE JUSTIFIABLE

When Circumstances Tend to Moral Justification.

Mrs. J. J. Dimmitt Inherits Fortune from Uncle in Italy, but Does Not Tell Husband—Quarrel Is the Outcome and the Court Is Asked To Decide the Matter—A Divorce Is Granted the Woman.

Kansas City, Mo., Oct. 8.—If "provocation is great" and circumstances tend to moral justification, a wife may lie to her husband, according to a decision today by the Kansas City court of appeals in the case of Mrs. Carrie Dimmitt, of Monroe, Missouri, suing James J. Dimmitt, a merchant, for the custody of their child.

A fortune brought strife to the Dimmitts. Mrs. Dimmitt several months ago fell heir to $125,000, left by an uncle who died in Italy. She did not tell her husband. The money was to be held in trust by another kinsman during his life.

An insurance company learned of the bequest and offered to lead Mrs. Dimmitt $25,000 on her chances of outliving the trustee if she could pass a physical examination.

Mrs. Dimmitt underwent an examination by a physician. Mr. Dimmitt, not knowing the reason and not believing his wife's ill health plea, was angry. The quarrel led to divorce.

The court today awarded the child to the mother. She said she did not tell her husband about the money "for fear he would spend it." She collected the $25,000.

100 PERSON DIE IN AN EXPLOSION

Report of Great Catastrophe in Tampico, Mexico.

DYNAMITE LETS GO IN CONFLAGRATION

Revolutionists Suspected of Causing Disaster.

Three Hundred Are Injured in the Explosion, Which Occurs Without Warning—Many of the Killed and Injured Are Spectators, Attracted by the Burning Building—Many Buildings Are Burned.

Mexico City, Oct. 8.—A government dispatch from Tampico states that more than 100 were killed by the explosion in that city last night. Fire broke out early today and many buildings in the center of the city were burned. The flames are still spreading.

Terrific Explosion.

Tampico, Mex., Oct. 8.—Three hundred persons are suffering from injuries and forty-five mangled bodies are in the morgue as the result of an explosion of dynamite in a store house here last night.

Of the injured, twenty probably will die.

An investigation by the authorities led to the discovery that the explosion occurred during a fire, which had evidently been set by an incendiary.

Many of the killed and injured were spectators attracted by the burning building. Suddenly, as they pressed close, there was a terrific detonation which shook the earth and sent flying embers for many yards through the air.

Persons of revolutionary sympathies are suspected of having fired the building and in some manner exploded the dynamite.

DIVING FIFTY FEET FROM THE TOP OF TORBAY SADDLE ROCK

CALLINGS AND HILL DIVING OFF SADDLE ROCK

Here is shown the wonderful diving of two English experts, F. G. Collings and F. J. Hill, who took the plunge from the top of Saddle Rock, Torbay. The apex of the rock is fifty feet from the surface of the water. Mr. Collings, who is the second man to leave the rock, is seen in the act of turning a double somersault, a very daring feat at this height and one which has never been attempted by any other English diver. He has represented the United Kingdom in international competitions. His companion, Mr. Hill, is taking the "swallow dive," and that doesn't mean that the diver will try to swallow all the water in the ocean, as one novice described his experience on his first attempt to "do things."

WAR DECLARED BY MONTENEGRO

Army Advances into Territory of the Sultan.

BALKAN ALLIES ARE EXPECTED TO FOLLOW

The News Comes as Shock to European Capitals.

Little Kingdom Forces the Hand of the Powers by Today's Action. 25,000 Austrian Troops Are on the March and It Is Thought This Is First Step in Actual Intervention To Prevent Balkan Conflict.

London, Oct. 8.—Montenegro has declared war against Turkey, and her army today advanced into Ottoman territory where fighting is now going on. This news was conveyed from Cetinje, the capital of Montenegro, in an official message to the Serbian charge d'affaires in this city. It also states that the rest of the Balkan league will have to follow suit.

Although the smallest of the Balkan states, having an army of only 50,000 men, Montenegro has thus forced the hand of the powers by declaring war on Turkey.

It has been feared all along that Montenegrin leaders that Bulgaria would weaken at the last moment and allow the pressure of the powers to prevent her from going to war. However, Montenegro has thus taken the lead, and is in a position to force the other Balkan states to follow her declaring war against the common enemy—Turkey.

A Vigorous Monarch.

King Nicholas, of Montenegro, although an aged man, is a vigorous monarch. His people have the patriotic spirit of mountaineers, and most every man is a soldier.

News from Cetinje that war has been declared came as a shock to the European capitals. For the outburst had been considered much brighter.

It caused severe depressions in the stock markets and the bourses. The war was vigorous selling of all classes securities.

Montenegro is the most westerly of the Balkan kingdoms and has a population estimated at 235,000. Montenegro took up arms against Turkey in 1876 and, after the Russo-Turkish conflict, received a large accession of territory.

Battle Raging.

Vienna, Oct. 8.—A battle that has already lasted more than twenty-four hours, in which many have fallen, is being fought between Malisori tribesmen and nine Turkish battalions on the Montenegrin front near Tuzi. The Malisori tribesmen are native Christians in Albania.

Details of the engagement were received here from Cetinje by telegraph. The tribesmen attacked the Turks, but the latter took up strong position, which they defended against a series of assaults night.

Austria Takes a Step.

Vienna, Oct. 8.—Twenty-five thousand Austrian troops today marched into Novi Bazar, a strip of land situated between Montenegro and Serbia.

This is believed to be the first step in actual intervention by the powers of Europe to prevent war in the Balkans. These troops will be able to prevent a union of Montenegro and Serbian forces if ordered to do fifty thousand more will arrive tomorrow night.

MONTENEGRINS ARE DEFEATED

Invading Force Almost Wiped Out by Turks.

FIGHTING IN BALKANS IS BECOMING GENERAL

Serbia and Bulgaria Say State of War Exists.

New. That Russia Orders Mobilization of Troops and That Martial Law Will Be Proclaimed in Poland causes excitement in Germany. Some fear a Great War—Women Want to Join Balkan Armies.

Oct. 9.—In a battle lasting more than thirty-six hours, the detachment of the Montenegrin army which crossed the frontier near Berana, has been decisively defeated by a Turkish force. The Montenegrin force was practically annihilated by the Turkish soldiers. Dispatches received today from various points in the Balkans and Salonika state that fighting between states of the Balkan league and Turkey is becoming general, despite the fact that Montenegro was the only one of the Balkan kingdoms to have formally declared war upon the Ottoman empire up to this morning.

Fighting between Greek soldiers and Turks is going on along the Greece-Turkish frontier. It is reported from Athens that soldiers have been killed and wounded on both sides in frequent clashes between patrol forces.

On the March. A Montenegrin force is reported to be marching on the Albanian city of Scutari, on the southern shores of Scutari lake. There is a big Turkish garrison at Scutari, which has been strengthened since the Balkan situation became critical.

Serbian troops have crossed the eastern frontier and have been fighting with Ottoman soldiers since yesterday. At Javir a severe fight took place. The Serbians retreated after losing a few men.

Despite Turkey's concessions to the Malissori tribesmen, the native Christians in Albania, the tribesmen are still up in arms. Two thousand Malissori tribesmen have concentrated south of Scutari, where they have a Turkish blockhouse under siege.

Turks Cooped Up. General Kessed Pacha, one of the Ottoman commanders in Albania, is cooped up with the Turkish soldiers in the beleaguered fort. It is reported that a number of Turks have been massacred near Tortukal in Bulgaria by fanatic Bulgarians during an anti-Turkish demonstration.

King Nicholas of Montenegro, and his second son, Prince Mirko, a general in the Montenegrin army, arrived today at Podgoritz, the military headquarters. King Nicholas will probably take the field at the head of his army.

Berlin dispatches report that Serb Sazonoff, the Russian foreign minister who has been in London and Paris discussing the Balkan situation with the foreign secretaries, has become convinced that a general war in southeastern Europe cannot be prevented. Russia will use her endeavors now, it was said, to realize the war.

Declare War Exists.

London, Oct. 9.—The Serbian and Bulgarian legations announced this afternoon that a state of war exists between their countries and Turkey. This is tantamount to a declaration of war, and it is possible that no further declaration will be made before the beginning of hostilities.

Forces Begin To Advance.

Paris, Oct. 9.—News agency dispatches announce that a state of war exists between Turkey and Bulgaria. Serbian and Bulgarian forces are said to have begun the advance into Turkish territory. Czar Ferdinand will lead the Bulgarian troops against Mustafa Pacha, the Turkish commander.

Women Want To Fight.

Salonika, Oct. 9.—Women are clamoring for admission into the Serbian and Bulgarian armies, according to word received here today from Belgrade and Sofia.

A number of women have cut off their hair and disguised themselves as men in order to enlist. This information was sent here to show the strength of the hostility against Turkey.

All the influential members of the Young Turk committee of union and progress are leaving for Constantinople to assist Mahmud Shefat, former minister of war, who had been made special adviser to the government.

Russia Causes Alarm.

Berlin, Oct. 9.—A dispatch from Warsaw states that Russia has ordered the mobilization of ten army corps on the western frontier, to be completed in ten days, and martial law will then be proclaimed in Russian Poland.

The news caused tremendous excitement in the German capital. Some diplomats declaring that Russia is preparing for a war that will involve the great powers of Europe, particularly Germany, Austria, Gibson, who has been held for the grand jury by Judge Royce, of Orange county, New York, on the charge of murdering Countess Szabo.

AND STILL THEY SEND MISSIONARIES ABROAD.

Louisville, Ky., Oct. 9.—"I'm James Huber, from Cumberland county, and I want to enlist in the southern army," announced an applicant at the United States army recruiting station here. "In what army?" asked Private A. Barrett, who was in charge of the branch station. "In the southern army," replied the candidate for military honors. "My father was a confederate soldier and I want to fight in the same army he was in." Huber expressed astonishment when told that the war ended many years ago. "You don't say so?" he exclaimed. "I thought they were still fighting in the South." An effort was made to induce him to enlist, but the applicant left declaring: "If I can't join the confederate army I won't join any."

Bulgaria Is the Next.

Constantinople, Oct. 9.—The Porte was notified today by the Turkish representative at Sofia that Bulgaria would declare war before night. This government has already taken the aggressive. Four thousand Albanians acting under orders from the government have invaded Montenegrin territory. The village of Adrainople in European Turkey was declared under martial law today. Turkey has decided to make that section the center of her war operations.

Monday, a freight engine got away from the crew in the Erie yards at Kent, and the monster locomotive ran ten miles before it was overtaken by a passenger engine, which was hastily sent after the runaway.

When the engine got away from the crew the greatest excitement ensued. It ran through the network of yard tracks for a mile before it reached the main track. It continued on its mad career through to Ravenna and beyond. As the engine started up Freedom hill, east of Ravenna, the passenger engine in pursuit caught up, a flying coupling was made and the runaway stopped.

There was due at Ravenna a west-bound train about the time the runaway engine passed through. Fortunately the operator got word from Kent, sidetracked the train in time to prevent a wreck.

The account shows that the birdman accumulated a fortune of $279,298 40, including all of his personal holdings and realty. ARMED POSSES SEEK ROBBERS

Two Bandits Hold Up Train in Oklahoma.

ARE BELIEVED TO BE HIDING IN CORNFIELD

Revolver Battle Expected If They Are Found.

Amount of Thefts from Rock Island Passenger Train Not Yet Determined—Bandits Compel Engineer To Stop at Lonely Spot—Seven Explosions Are Necessary To Blow Open the Express Safe.

Fort Smith, Ark., Oct. 9.—Armed with rifles and shotguns, sheriffs' posses have surrounded a cornfield near Wister, Oklahoma, where it is believed the two youths, who held up the Rock Island passenger train, No. 4, last night, are in hiding.

The robbers rifled both mail and express cars and secured quantities of registered letters, express packages and money consignments. The amount of their thefts could not be determined by the authorities.

Although evidently amateurs at train robbing, the bandits were not lacking in daring, and a revolver battle is expected with them by the posses.

Stop the Train.

The bandits entered the cab of Engineer Buchanan and compelled him to stop the train at a point where dense woods line the track on either side. They later entered the mail car, compelling the enginemen to walk ahead and shield them, and then overcame the mail clerks and baggage men. They forced the trainmen to cut the express and mail cars from the rest of the train and run into Wister.

Seven explosions were necessary to blow open the express car safe. A flagman escaped and ran to Howe, where the alarm was given. Two posses were organized and chased the robbers to the cornfield.

MAYOR REGRETS THAT HE RESCINDS HIS ORDER

Objects to Distribution of Pupils to Schools.

OPENING OF ROOMS IN CENTRAL BUILDING

The Board of Education Holds a Meeting and Authorizes the Superintendent To Open Building and Give Five Out of Eight Rooms to the High School.

Tuesday night, at a called meeting of the board of education, President George L. Sauer, Mrs. A. J. Whitting and Otto G. Briggs voted to authorize Superintendent Henry A. Hartman to reopen the Central building to the first, seventh and eighth grades, and to give five of the building's eight rooms over to the use of the High school students.

Robert J. Pennell, the only other board member present, voted against such an arrangement, but President Sauer declared the motion carried. Member Pennell protested against the president's ruling, but Sauer held that a majority vote prevailed in all motions not for the expenditure of money.

Accordingly, when the Central building pupils reported to that building, Wednesday, the first, second, third, fourth, fifth and sixth grades were directed to go to various other buildings over the city. This arrangement has caused widespread dissatisfaction, because it was generally believed that all of the pupils would be taken back to the Central building as a result of the mayor rescinding his order closing it.

Parents Indignant.

Parents are greatly indignant because of the action taken by the three members of the board. Mayor Claude D. Walters was also indignant. When informed of what had been done in giving the High school students five of the Central building rooms and allowing only the pupils of the first, seventh and eighth grades to attend there, he said:

"If I had known that all the pupils of the Central building were not to be allowed to go back there, I would never have rescinded my order closing the Central building. There is no reason why the High school should not continue its half-day sessions until other arrangements can be made by the board. There is no reason why every grade should not be restored to the Central building and the High school pupils do as they have been doing. I did not rescind my order against the Central building for the benefit of the High school. I did it because I thought the grade pupils would be allowed to return to their studies there."

Against the Motion.

Mrs. Whitting made the motion to distribute the second, third, fourth, fifth and sixth grade pupils from the Central building. It was seconded by Member Briggs. Member Pennell declared his opposition to the motion, asserting that he feared to trust

A year ago when the Prince visited this country he was received in almost royal state many prominent millionaires having catered to him in an unusual style.

Superintendent Hartman's judgment in the distribution. He indicated that he had little faith in the superintendent's capacity to meet such a task.

President Sauer said that Superintendent Hartman wanted to distribute the grades mentioned in Mrs. Whitting's motion, and Member Pennell brought out that Members Sauer, Briggs and Whitting had discussed the matter with the superintendent.

Both Superintendent Hartman and Principal K. H. Marshall, of the High school, attended the meeting.

Reducing the Rank.

Wednesday, Mr. Marshall said that to continue the High school on half day sessions would soon reduce it from the first to the second grade and its graduates would not have access to colleges and universities without examination, as is now the case. This would be due, he says, to the fact that so much of the High school work would have to be omitted.

In cities where the High schools have half-day sessions, Principal Marshall says that none of the work is eliminated. The students have just as many periods of study and just as much room is required as when whole-day sessions are held.

Superintendent Hartman was directed to hold half-day sessions in the first and second grades in buildings where congestion exists.

BELMONT TAKES DIG AT MOOSERS

Talks on Subject of Campaign Fund Publicity.

THE TRIUMPH OF THE PROGRESSIVE PARTY

Will Mean Undoing Work of Law Association.

President of National Publicity Law Association Declares an Alliance Between Corporations and Politicians, Beyond Reach of Legislation, Will Result If the Moose Party Wins.

Kansas City, Oct. 9.—Perry Belmont, the Washington society leader and president of the National Publicity Law association took a rap at the Progressive party in a speech here last night before the Knife and Fork club, on the subject of campaign fund publicity.

Mr. Belmont declared that the triumph of the Progressive party this fall would mean the undoing of all the work of the National Publicity Law association in bringing about a campaign fund reform, and would result in renewing the alliance between corporations and politicians. This alliance, said the speaker, reached its culmination in the campaign of 1904 and if the Progressive party prevailed, the alliance would be placed beyond the reach of legislation.

"A more reactionary proposition," affirmed Mr. Belmont, "could hardly be advocated by any political party unless it is the still more reactionary interpretation of the unwritten law against the third term."

"It is as if it were proposed," said he, "with similar unheating assurance and unflinching inconsistency, to correct the evils of the corrupt secrecy of party funds in presidential elections, by having as few presidential elections as possible or by abolishing them altogether in the interest of a president for life."

Quotes Mr. Perkins.

Mr. Belmont called attention to an address by George W. Perkins August 7, 1910, in which he quotes the latter as saying, "Our very constitution starts with the declaration, 'We the people of the United States,' in order to form a more perfect union." The central thought of those men, at that time, was to effect a consolidation. To organize a holding company, with thirteen subsidiary companies to create a monopoly in government in this country, and they said they did so, to insure domestic tranquility, provide for the common defense and promote the general welfare." From that day to this, when any new government in this country set itself up as such, and grew strong enough to be recognized as such, the original holding company took it over, absorbed it out of business as an independent government. After this holding company had been in existence for some time, and had taken over a great many subsidiary companies, a difference arose, and some of the subsidiary companies declared they had the right to withdraw from the holding company and set up a government of their own.

Further Analogy.

"The holding company said they could not withdraw, and a mighty war followed, in which the subsidiary companies, who tried to withdraw from the holding company, were forced to surrender and remain in the holding company. Almost an exact parallel has occurred in the development of our great corporations."

"Those who join in entertaining such a view of our constitution," commented Mr. Belmont, "and our dual system of government, and to whom they term 'big business' seems to be a sort of fetish, should remember that ours is a commercial country and something more, an industrial country and something more, an agricultural country and something more. Neither do other wealth-producing agencies include all the activities or all the aspirations and ideals of the American people, nor do they represent all the elements creating the spirit of the nation."

OHIO CROP REPORT IS ISSUED TODAY

Corn, Oats and Potatoes Are the Big Crops This Year.

Columbus, Oct. 9.—An average yield of ten bushels of wheat an acre, or a total yield of only 10,454,425 bushels for Ohio, were the figures of the crop report issued by the state department of agriculture today. The quality also is poor at seventy-six per cent.

The corn prospect was ninety-six per cent. of a full average, while the oats crop will be a "hummer," with a total yield of 83,171,314 bushels, or forty-four bushels an acre, with a quality of ninety-three per cent.

Potatoes promise a big crop and lower prices in that staple should knock a dent in the high cost of living. The barley yield was estimated at 1,077,549 bushels, with a quality of eighty-nine per cent. Apples with an average of sixty-three per cent. are almost a failure.
